No opposition appears likely to Proposition 1 on ballot

Next Tuesday is election day in the City of Carmel, and voters will not only choose two councilmen out of the field of five who are running, but they will also act on two ballot propositions.

By this time voters have received their sample ballots from city hall, and on that ballot are those two propositions, along with the names of the Council candidates. Along with the sample ballots, voters also received a sheet offering pro-and-con arguments on the propositions.

Ballot Proposition No. 1 asks voters to decide if "the offices of City Clerk and City Treasurer" should be made appointive. They are offered only an argument in favor of a "yes" vote, since City Clerk Hugh Bayless states that no ballot argument was submitted against Proposition No. 1.

The usual result when voters are faced with this kind of choice is a "yes" decision. At the present pay rates applying to the positions, neither job could be full-time. (Pay for the City Clerk is $100 a month; for the city treasurer, $60.) As the argument for a "yes" vote on the sheet accompanying the sample ballot said, the clerk's functions have been largely absorbed by the appointive position of City Administrator, and the two positions are held by the same man, Hugh Bayless.

In the case of the city treasurer, the duties of the job complement those of the City Finance Officer, which has long been a full-time position at city hall. At present, however, two persons share the treasurer-finance-officer functions. John Rennells holds the part-time job of city treasurer, while the full-time position of city finance officer is held by Arthur Plaxton.

Until a few years ago, the argument for retaining the city clerk's job as an elective one, was substantially better than it is today. Before the new position of city administrator was created, the city clerk's pay was $600 a month and could then reasonably have continued to be someone's full-time job.

While theoretically the city clerk's and the city treasurer's positions have been elective during all the years since Carmel's incorporation, observers point out that it has - from a practical standpoint - been all but impossible for candidates to have free access to them. This has been due to the practice of City Councils to fill vacancies in each position between elections, and thus to create the attitude among voters that experienced incumbents should be retained by voters, in view of the alleged technical requirements of each job.

'Friends of Trees' forms to protect Carmel's forests

A group of Carmel citizens is forming a new organization, tentatively named "The Friends of Trees" to serve as a "watchdog" over the City's management of one of Carmel's most precious resources.

The group decided to organize after the City Council's tour of tree conditions in the tennis court greenbelt, on the site bounded by Camino del Monte, Junipero and Lorca Lane.

Among the leaders of the "Friends" are Mrs. Jack Borsting, Bert Rudolph, Richard Murray and Mary Fry.

Some 30 persons toured Tuesday with the Council and City Administrator Hugh Bayless on its periodic tour of tree conditions. Bayless read a report by City Forester Robert Tate that chiefly stresses the removal of "suppressed" trees - up to as many as 200 in the tennis court area.

The issue was tabled by Councilman Blanks. Before it will be discussed again, a report for criteria for a master plan on forest management will be submitted by Richard Murray, a local landscape artist and vice president of the Northern Council of Landscape Architects.

The "Friends of Trees" will work on a joint report with the Forestry Commission. Interested persons can phone 624-2801 for more information.

Five candidates vie for two seats on Carmel City Council Tuesday

When the voters go to the polls next Tuesday, April 14 to elect two city councilmen, they will have five candidates to choose from.

One vacancy is a result of the retirement of councilman Herbert Blanks, who is retiring from office after completing two terms. The other seat at stake is held by councilman Ken Brown, appointed in May 1968 to fill the unexpired term of William Sefton, who resigned.

The three other councilmen, elected two years ago, remain in office until elections are held again in 1972. They are Barney Laiolo, Frank Falge and Eben Whittlesey.

Carmel-by-the-Sea is a General Law City, which, according to state requirements, is governed by a City Council, usually comprised of five members elected to four-year terms. Three of these are chosen in one election, and the other two in alternating two-year elections.

The mayor is not elected directly by the voters. He is, instead, appointed by the new City Council - usually its first act as the new city government. And, the mayor is usually chosen as the councilman who received the most votes during the election.

This was true in 1968 when Carmel's present mayor, Barney Laiolo, received the most votes in the city council race. A group is now circulating petitions in Carmel to retain Laiolo as mayor.

Two other council members still have two years to serve before their seats come up for election. They are Frank Falge, who was elected to his first two-year term in 1968, and Eben Whittlesey, who was elected to a third term in that same year.

Other Peninsula cities - Monterey and Pacific Grove are examples - are Charter Cities, rather than General Law Cities. Voters in these cities elect their mayor by direct ballot during the general city election.

Profiles of the five candidates on the Carmel ballot follow:

BERNARD ANDERSON
Bernard Anderson has served three years on the Carmel Forestry Commission and presently is Chairman. He was recently chosen Executive Vice President of the Carmel Citizens Committee and served as chairman of the Carmel Citizens' Committee for Sewage Disposal.

Following undergraduate work at the University of Washington, he received his Master's degree in Forestry from the University of Idaho. Anderson retired from the U.S. Forest Service after 30 years of administrative experience, finishing as Chief of Personnel, Washington, D.C. He was then selected as the Chief of Personnel for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, a served as president of the California State Motel Association. Long active in the local Lions Club, he served a term as its president.

Brown is a former director of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce and of the Carmel Business Assn. He served on the Board of Directors of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest and is now on the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army.

They have two grown children - Leonard Brown and Mary Angier. Mrs. Angier operates a lingerie shop in Carmel.

Peninsula Republican Men's Club.

The Norbergs have two children, Eric and Karin. Eric is program director for a Monterey radio station.

CHARLES McEWEN

Charles McEwen, a local real estate broker, is the present chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission.

Born and brought up in Kansas City, Missouri, he first came to Carmel in 1950. However, the following year, he moved to Stockton where he engaged in land development as well as real estate brokerage.

The McEwens returned to Carmel from Stockton in 1957 and they have lived here ever since.

He holds a graduate certificate in real estate from the extension division of the University of California, and he has taught courses in real estate at Monterey Peninsula College.

A past president of both the Carmel Business Association and the Carmel Board of Realtors, he is also a member of the Carmel Rotary Club. This year he is also serving as regional vice president of the California Real Estate Association.

His wife, Naoma, is employed in a local bank. Their daughter, Jean, is married and living in Menlo Park.

LESLIE GROSS

Leslie Gross, property manager for Carmel Realty, was at one time administrator of planning and development for the City of Tiburon, located in the San Francisco Bay area.

Born and brought up in the central valley of California, Gross completed his formal education at Modesto College. After managing his family's orchard property, he operated his own interior decorating business in Modesto. He moved to Carmel in 1959 and he has lived here most of the time since that year. He also served in the Building Dept. with the City of Monterey.

His wife, Betty, is employed in a local real estate office, and they have two grown children - Donald, employed in a Redwood City bank, and Carol, a Modesto housewife. Gross is a member of the Carmel Board of Realtors and of the Carmel Citizens' Committee.

Meet the Candidates in person Friday night

You can meet the candidates in person Friday night, Apr. 10, at "Candidates' Night" sponsored by the Carmel Citizens Committee. All five city council candidates will be on hand to answer questions from the floor.

Carmel City Attorney William Burleigh will serve as moderator.

The meeting will be held at the Carmel Women's Club, San Carlos & 9th, starting at 8 p.m.

Carmel City Administrator Hugh Bayless will also speak on Proposition No. 1, the ballot measure which would make the city clerk and city treasurer's posts appointive.

The Carmel Citizens Committee is an independent group with membership of 650 in Carmel and vicinity. Admiral C.W. Fisher is chairman. Percy Wilson is in charge of general arrangements for the evening.

position in which he served for eight years in Rome, Italy, before coming to Carmel in 1965. The organization has 115 member nations and employees from 65 countries.

He and his wife Ethel are the parents of three children: Larry, an Ohio State University professor; Jim, a Peace Corps volunteer in Africa; and Mrs. Gervaise Davis of Monterey.

KEN BROWN

Brown, an incumbent councilman, was appointed in May 1968 to fill the unexpired term of William Sefton who had resigned.

Brought up in Iowa, Brown completed his education at Des Moines University there. After 20 years in the wholesale radio business in Des Moines, he came to Carmel in 1951 with his wife, Beryl, and entered the motel business.

In the 1958-59 period he

GUNNAR NORBERG

Norberg, a travel agency owner, served on the City Council from 1958 to 1962, and from 1964 to 1968. Born in Canada and brought up in Sweden and Minnesota, he completed his formal education at Stanford University.

While working as a magazine editor in New York City, he met his wife-to-be, Barbara, a professional actress. While vacationing in Carmel, in 1940, the Norbergs decided to make it their permanent home, and they have resided here ever since that year. A charter member of the Carmel Rotary Club, Norberg served as its treasurer for several years. During most of the 1950s he was troop committee chairman for Carmel Boy Scout Troop No. 32. Long active in political affairs, he was founder and first president of the Monterey

Voters to advise on fate of Art Museum

"Shall the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea establish a public museum of natural and historical objects within the city and levy a property tax of up to twenty cents (20c) per hundred dollars of assessed valuation for the acquisition and maintenance thereof?"

This is the question posed on the ballot as Proposition No. 2 for the consideration of Carmel voters. The wording of this measure does not indicate that the fate of the Carmel Art Museum is at stake.

The structure, on Dolores between 7th & Ocean, formerly housed the Wells Fargo Bank, and has been the subject of some controversy lately.

There are some observers in Carmel who feel the question should not have been on the ballot at all, since the City Council, under existing state law, has full power to establish a city museum, and to budget tax funds for its operation, just as it has similar power to set up and operate a city library.

Carmel City Attorney Bill Burleigh agrees readily that the wording of the Proposition, which is rigidly determined by statute, is "vague and general".

He is quick to point out, however, that if the Council must levy a special tax, it must have the consent of the voters. The city government can only act on its own if it decides to acquire the museum property out of existing funds.

Supporters of the Proposition, as embodied in the ballot argument which accompanied the sample ballots in the mail, argue that the art museum "now holds the only significant collection of art by our earlier artists", even though there are more than 60 galleries in Carmel. They ask the voters to recognize that "The museum has offered its collection and staff and free use of its present building to the city of Carmel as the last attempt to maintain this important asset within the city of its origin."

Anticipating the reaction by already over-burdened taxpayers, the ballot argument points out that the "present museum operating budget of $25,000 could be maintained by a rate of 12 cents. A homeowner whose property is valued at $40,000 would pay only $1.00 per month."

City Administrator Hugh Bayless, speaking at the council meeting earlier this year at which it was decided to put the question to the voters, stated that the museum board had an art collection valued at $61,160, which it proposed giving to the city in specified increments if the city should decide to take over the museum operation.

The late Bert Heron, a former mayor, repeatedly offered a collection of some 500 autographed copies of first editions of books written by authors who had lived and worked in Carmel. The offer was turned down by the city's Cultural Commission because it was said the city had no "secure storage" to protect so valuable a collection. An ardent supporter of the struggling museum points out that the former bank building would provide storage for such gifts, and also for valuable and irreplaceable city records.

Shirley Houghton, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers Assn., declares in the ballot argument against Proposition No. 2 that "Carmel VOTERS GO TO THE POLLS Tuesday to decide whether the City should take over the operation of the Carmel Museum of Art. The former Wells Fargo Bank building is located on Dolores between 7th and Ocean.

already earmarks 23 percent of its million-dollar budget for cultural purposes (Sunset Center, Harrison Library, Cultural Commission). Carmel more than fulfills its cultural obligations and cannot afford to expand them."

The argument states further that if the city assumes responsibility for the museum, it would "have to assume about $96,000 in debts and an annual operating expense of $25,000 with probable future increases."

Echoing the sentiments of other opponents of the museum, Mrs. Houghton points out that "Carmel now has about 60 art galleries: commercial establishments, paying property and other taxes, freely open to the public. When most political leaders are seeking to reduce the crushing burden of the property tax, especially on homeowners with fixed incomes, Proposition No. 2 proposes an additional load ... to acquire and maintain an unmitigated luxury."

So, there it is. Proponents of the measure urge support for "Carmel's rich art heritage", and those in opposition urge defeat of a Proposition that would raise taxes for "an unmitigated luxury."

The fate of the museum hangs in the balance.

Whatever the outcome next Tuesday, the battle lines are clearly drawn in the struggle to keep the museum alive. If the voters should give the council a mandate to levy the special tax, it still would not be binding on the city. The voters, in this sense, are acting only in an advisory capacity.

Supporters of the museum could mount a last-ditch effort to force the city to acquire the museum by securing on petitions the signatures of one-third of the registered voters in Carmel—a task that would require strong, organized effort with a broad base of support.

Is there a serious pollution problem in the Carmel River?

The increasing problem of pollution in the Carmel River will be discussed at a meeting of the Regional Water Quality Control Board in San Luis Obispo Friday.

This will be a preliminary hearing on the beneficial uses of the river basin. The board will have before it a lengthy report, prepared at its request by the State Department of Water Resources, which analyzes the sources and quality of water in the river.

It will also have the recent coliform bacteria counts by the Monterey County Health Department, which show a coliform count of 24,000 MPN-100 ml. on March 2. The "acceptable" level is below 1000-100 ml.

In addition, the board will have a letter from Edwin B. Lee, president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, emphasizing the CVPOA's concern about pollution from septic tanks in Carmel Valley.

In a letter to Kenneth Jones, executive officer of the Central Coastal Regional Water Quality Control Board, Lee stated:

"... engineering calculations in the dry year 1966 indicated that the septic tank effluent from Berwick Manor, a Carmel Valley subdivision of some 40 homes, was being introduced without treatment into the Monterey Peninsula water supply. Two shallow (90 ft.) wells adjacent to that subdivision were being used to augment the water supply after the river ceased to flow. The nearest drain field is approximately 100 feet from a well. The County Health Department did not, however, report unacceptable coliform bacteria levels in their routine sampling of the water system."

Lee went on to say that the CVPOA has urged the County Board of Supervisors to establish strict zoning ordinances to control installation of more septic tanks.

"The Supervisors have refused to do so because of the well-organized opposition of some developers, realtors, land speculators and land-owners," he wrote. "Unless your organization can take effective measures to require that the Board act, it is obvious that such pollution must worsen."

SURVEILLANCE NEEDED

The report of the State Department of Water Resources recommends that the Regional Board approve regular surveillance of the river as part of its water quality control policy for the Carmel River basin.

It also recommends that the Regional board should:

1. Encourage the study of waste water reclamation for a possible source of supply when local interests undertake studies leading to the development of additional water supplies.

2. Pursue investigation of Hitchcock and Hatton Canyons as possible areas where the use of septic tanks is affecting water quality.

3. Request the State and Monterey County Health Departments to outline and conduct a surveillance program that would be responsive to the bacteriological effects resulting from the use of septic tanks.

The whole problem of pollution, septic tanks and water supply is, in the words of one Regional Board member, "the darndest daisy chain you ever saw."

In way of explanation, he said that if rigid pollution standards are applied to water coming from wells in Carmel Valley, the water available for domestic use on the Monterey Peninsula would be reduced. This would tend to strengthen the argument that the California-American Water Company should build a very large dam (probably in Cachagua Valley) to make up the deficit and meet future demand.

Therefore, he said, conservationists are inconsistent when they complain about polluted water on one hand and ask for the "smallest possible" dam, or maybe no dam at all on the upper Carmel River.

LT. COL. OLOW PRESENTED SOLDIER'S MEDAL

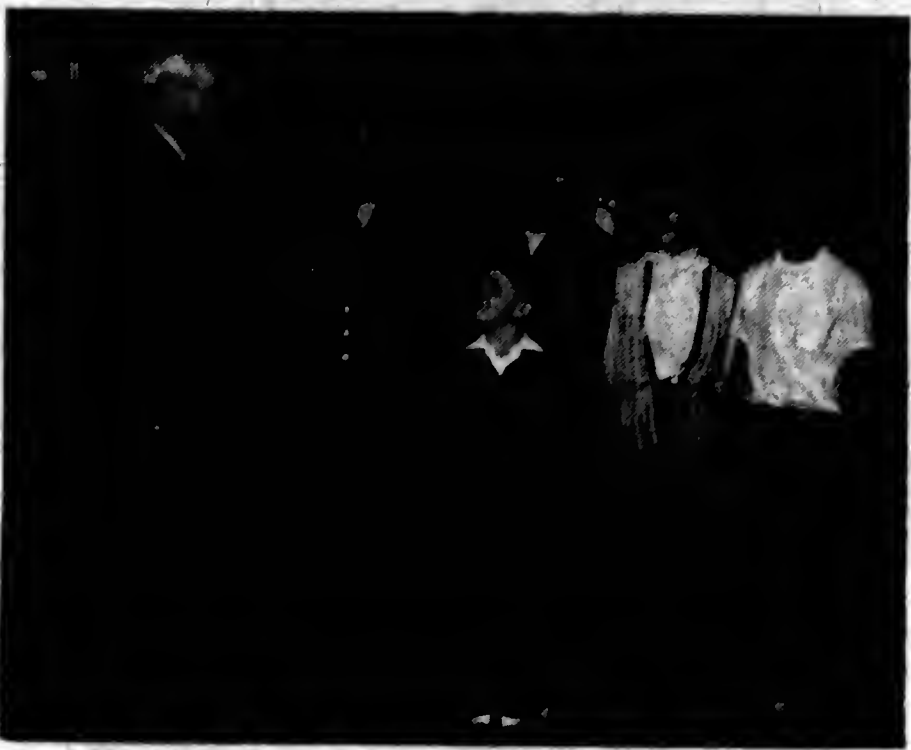

TAIPEI, Taiwan (MAAG) - Army Lieutenant Colonel John L. Olow III of the Military Assistance Advisory Group (MAAG) - Republic of China was presented the Soldier's Medal in recent ceremonies held in Army Section, MAAG.

Colonel Olow, Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, Army Section, MAAG, received the medal, the highest decoration for heroism under non-combatant conditions, for his heroic action during a Field Training Exercise Silver Talon while serving as Commanding Officer of the 2nd Battalion, 32nd Armor, 3rd Armored Division in Germany in January 1966.

His citation reads, in part, "As Commanding Officer of an armor battalion following a convoy between Hohestadt and Tüchelhausen, Germany, he observed a tank leave the road and fall down a steep embankment. At the risk of his life, he immediately went to the aid of the two crewmen trapped by the tank. He freed one man who was pinned inside the driver's compartment. He then re-entered the tank to turn off the engine, preventing a possible fire or explosion. He then attempted to free the other man from under the tank, digging first with his hands, and later with a shovel in spite of the obvious danger that the tank would slide down the embankment or fall forward onto its turret, crushing the injured man and himself. He continued to dig until the man was rescued."

Colonel Olow, who calls both Carmel and Bridgeport, Conn. home, entered the military service in July 1943 in Ft. Devens, Massachusetts, after graduating from the Bassick High School, Bridgeport, in the same year.

Colonel Olow's previous awards included the Silver Star, the Purple Heart, and Do children have heart murmurs?

The mother who is told her child has a heart murmur, but that is "innocent," or harmless, still may be likely to fret, human nature being what it is.

To help dispel her fears and to help the doctor explain what he means by "no cause for alarm," the Central Trails Heart Association makes available the leaflet "Innocent Heart Murmurs in Children."

A child with such a murmur does not have heart disease, the leaflet emphasizes. The likelihood of developing it is not any greater in such a child than in any other normal youngster. Nor is the innocent murmur any reason to place any special limit on physical activity.

What, then, does innocent heart murmur mean? When the doctor says a child has an innocent murmur — sometimes described as "functional" murmur — he is referring to a condition which is not uncommon in childhood. It occurs between the ages of three and seven, and generally disappears in adolescence.

But not all murmurs are innocent. Some, which the doctor can recognize, are organic, which means that a disease or defect of the heart is present.

The leaflet may be obtained by writing to the Heart Association at 541-A South Main Street, Salinas, Calif. 93901.

The rules are simple but firm:

All kites must be homemade. No commercial kites will be allowed.

Each kite entered must fly to be eligible for prizes.

Each kite may be entered in one age group only.

Kites entered in any previous year will not qualify for entry again this year.

Once again the Willis White Trophy Award will be given for the best international design, and the Ernest Calley Trophy Award will go to the Grand Champion kite.

Prizes for high flying, best workmanship and prettiest kite will be given in four age categories: 8 years and younger, 9 through 12 years, 13 through 15 years, and 16 and over.

There will also be prizes awarded for kites made by children under 12 years old without adult assistance.

GUNNAR NORBERG

to the CARMEL CITY COUNCIL — Tuesday, April 14, 1970

GUNNAR NORBERG

is experienced having been a Carmel City Councilman twice with terms from 1958 to 1962 & 1961 to 1965.

GUNNAR NORBERG

is a long time resident of this home town, he has been in Carmel as a taxpayer, travel agent, friend of the arts, family man & always a "Pine Cone" voter.

GUNNAR NORBERG

& his understanding of Carmel's needs are exemplified by his proposals to set up a City Forestry Commission and a City Arts Commission — both unanimously adopted.

GUNNAR NORBERG

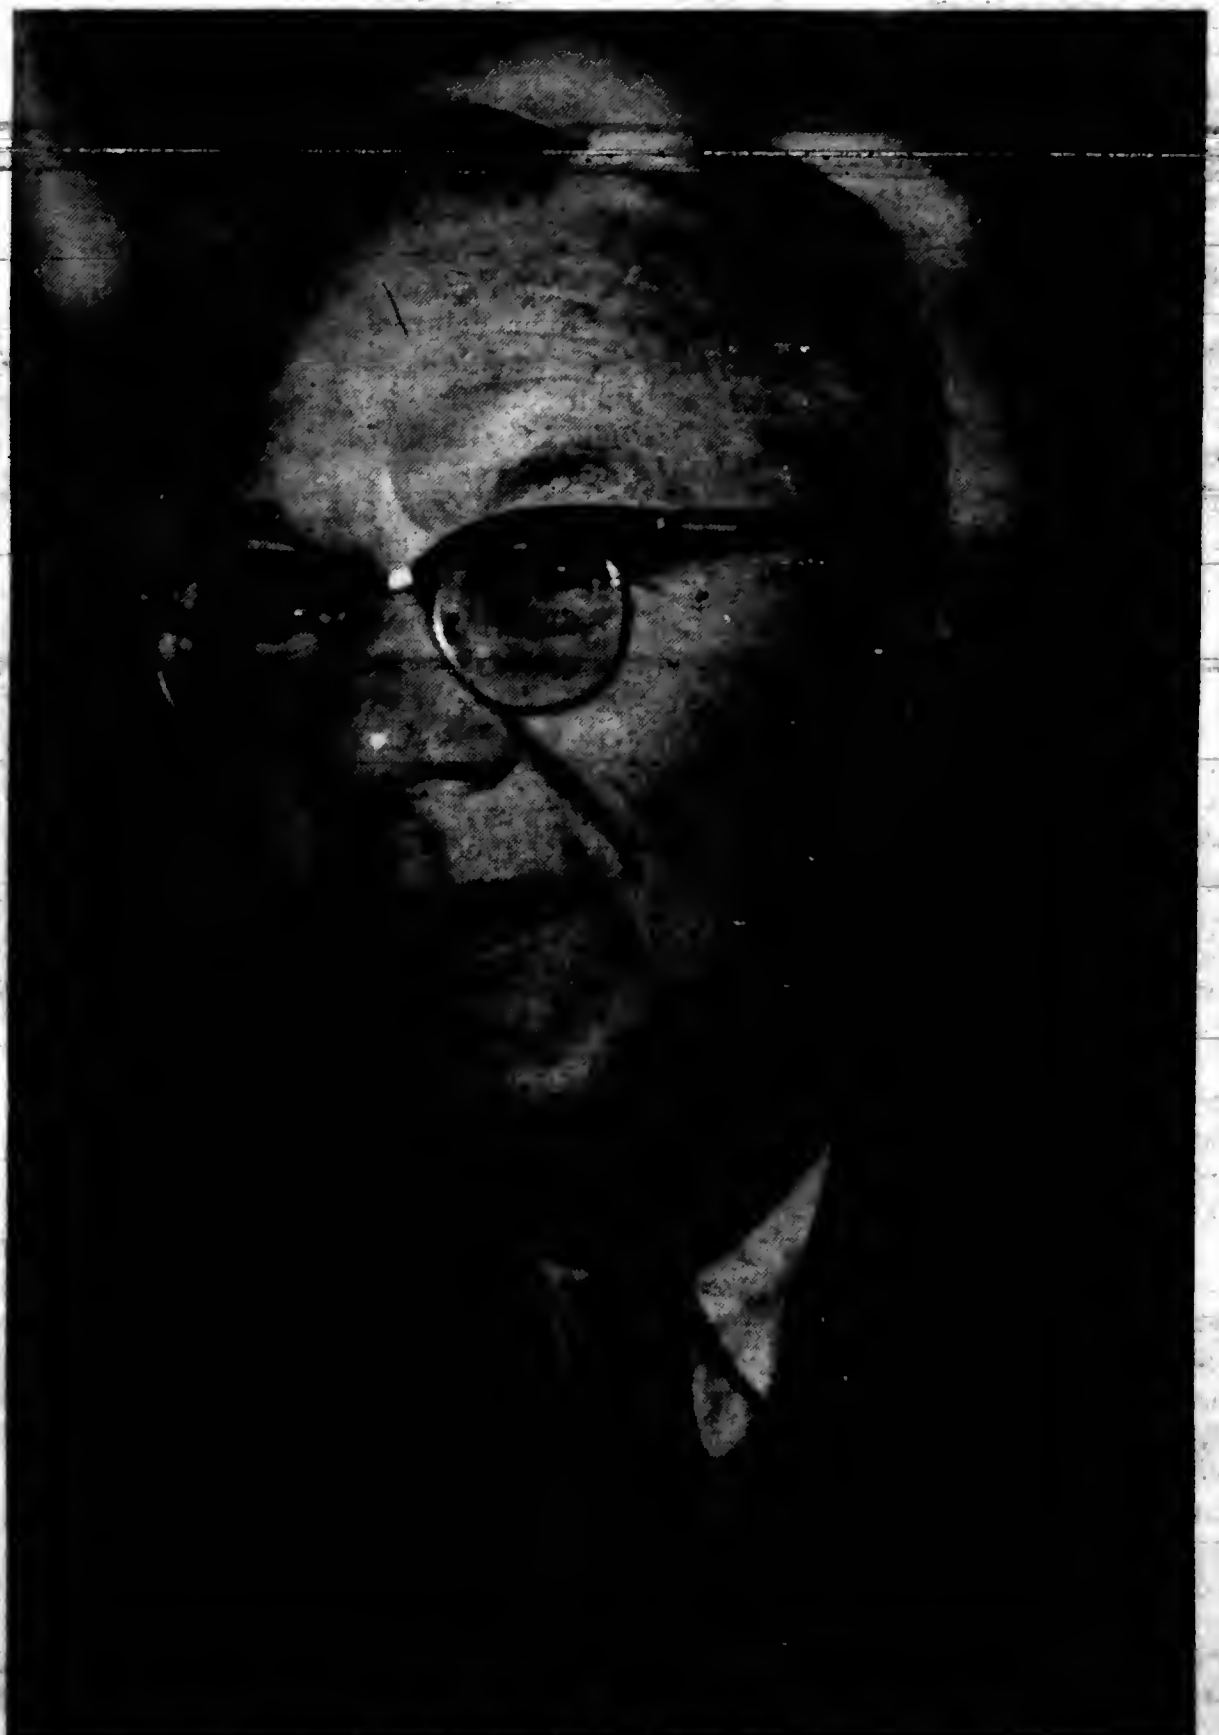

organized and headed the City of Carmel 50th Year Anniversary Celebration in 1966 by direction of the City Council resulting in a series of varied events which won praise for Carmel's community spirit.

GUNNAR NORBERG

wants to rekindle the spirit of Carmel and you can help by electing him a man as your Carmel City Councilman when you go to the polls on April 14, next.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

To you and to all who so actively gave their enthusiastic support to the $1,500,000 sewer bond election last week, the Carmel Sanitary District wishes to express its most grateful thanks and appreciation.

There are too many of you to enumerate by name, for this was truly a united effort by all who want to protect Carmel Bay now, not five or ten years from now.

It was as gratifying to you, as it was to us, that the voters residing within the District responded to your efforts with their overwhelming support, even though the final count was a scant 55 votes short of the necessary two thirds majority.

This heavy vote for the bonds indicates to us the confidence of the voters in the Sanitary District Board. Incidentally, the Master Plan was not a hasty one as charged, but was developed and engineered after long months of careful investigation and study, both by the board and by Kennedy Engineers, one of the most internationally famous firms of Sanitary Engineers.

It is now the Board's intention to proceed with determination and intensified effort to solve the problem which still confronts us. Through expanded methods of communication, we intend to develop an even wider understanding of the need for early completion of the necessary expansion and improvement of our present facilities.

One way or another, we must meet the water quality standards set by the State of California and we intend to do it just as quickly as possible.

Once again, our sincere thanks to you and to all who participated with you in support of the Bond issue. The Carmel Sanitary District Board assures you it will continue to act in the best interest of the people who reside within the borders of the District. We are counting on you for your continued backing and support.

Gratefully yours,
CARMEL SANITARY DISTRICT

To the Editor:

I noticed with great interest your short article on page 19 of your April 2, 1970 issue. This article was in regard to Senator George Murphy's recent statement in favor of the 18 Year Old Vote. I have just recently served as coordinator for Monterey County on the petition drive for the California State Initiative Amendment to put the 18 Year Old Vote on the November ballot. I gathered considerable material pro and con on the 18 Year Old Vote. If Senator Murphy has recently made a clear cut statement such as "I favor the 18 Year Old Vote", I would like to have a copy of it. I must have failed to see this statement.

To the editor:

As a former resident and frequent visitor to Carmel, I find myself extremely taken aback by the coverage of one of your staff writers on one of Carmel's most outstanding and authentic French Restaurants, Le Coq D'or.

This little gem boasts atmosphere, graciousness and the most superb French cuisine. It has been unequivocally recognized as one of the finest of its type on the entire West Coast for the twelve years it has served its public.

I deplore the tactics of an individual who can -- without "taste" (both connotations) commit such a disservice to any business. And, I believe such a person is thoroughly unqualified to occupy such a post.

LORRAINE GOSSLIN

A letter to the Editor:

I write as a soldier who has served in four wars! I know whereof I write. As readers and layman do not criticize the unfortunate men who have been accused of crimes in Vietnam.

Just picture the situation of an enemy entrenched at the end of the block wherein you live. Would you in the face of the enemy having machine guns, mortars, grenades and other instruments of war firing at you in your advance upon them to kill you? To be in combat there is only one rule, to advance to your objective and to kill or be killed in that advance. War is not a pretty thing, bound to rules of politeness, it is a horrible experience to those who have been under fire wherein the enemy is about to kill you or you to kill him. It is kill or be killed. When your companion and Buddy falls at your side you do not think of niceties or politeness ... it is kill. These unfortunate officers and men were not beasts taught to kill but persons like you and I. After all the United States Army are boys and girls such as yours. So do not judge them harshly. The terror of any War is a grotesque thing that changes a peaceful citizen into a character to defend the honor of his country and the duty he owes to his comrades. May God bless them all, both ours and theirs.

It was a real pleasure to read in your issue of February 19, past, the scholarly article on George Washington written by Col. Austin De Camp. What impressed me greatly other than the interestingly patriotic writing was the fact that your paper indicated agreement in patriotism and acknowledgement of the great values to us living Americans in printing this article. A great relief from the attacks being presently made against our Government.

I hop that you will in the future open your columns to more of this type of writing. I would like to read more of it from Col. De Camp.

Long live America.
John S. Coates

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone:

Having just returned from an extended business trip for a few days of Carmel rest and quiet, I have had a little time to review in your paper and others, the sad fate of the so very vital and urgent Sewer Bond issue and its probably burdensome effect on our Carmel Tax Payers.

Candidly, from such review, I have been struck with the quantity on the one hand, and the lack of responsibility on the other hand, that characterized the opposition argumentation, the actual facts in the matter having been so simple and imperative.

Of an engineering background myself, it gave me to wonder why more of our better qualified engineers of utility and public works financing experience were not more prominently heard from in public analysis of the facts vs fancy aspects of the case.

Could it have been, that to Engineers, the fallacy of linking up the State demanded outfall with the Bond issue, plus the common sense promotion of a million and half dollar bonding as an inducement to the Federal Government for matching funds to save us local taxpayers another million, all was so plain and simple that not any of the highly lurid buncom and expensive advertising of the opposition could fool anyone?

Now that they did fool a third of the voters, and have accomplished their frustrating purposes, we think that the nearly two thirds that they didn't fool, would demand of them that in all good faith they should come forth with their own specific and detailed plan, costs and engineering by which they will accomplish the mandatory sanitary district improvements without adding another staggering burden on the backs of us already groaning tax payers. We have not an endless amount of time to wait for their responsible action in the matter.

Very truly,
J. ZACK EDWARDS

Dear Sir:

Sincere thanks from the Carmel Chapter of American Field Service for your fine coverage of our motion picture benefit at Carmel's Village Theatre, The Reivers.

Proceeds from the film will go to our International Scholarship Fund to help bring foreign students to Carmel High School and to help send our students abroad. We thank you and all those who helped make this such a successful event.

Sincerely,
MRS. REX SHUDE

Gentlemen,

Thank you for publishing the early issues of the Carmel Pine Cone. It has been very interesting to read for those of us coming afterwards, (1958) to learn of the town's specific beginnings considered news items.

We also enjoy your present issues of broad coverage; especially appealing, the pet pictures, food column and useful advertising messages.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Finch

Dear Sir:

The voters of Carmel should rightly know more about the Museum Tax Proposal, also known as Proposition 2, which shares the ballot booth center stage with the City Council election next Tuesday, the 14th.

It may well not be just a question of whether Carmel is to retain this particular heritage or not. Should this be simply an advisory vote, a newly constituted Carmel City Council would do well to explore various other alternatives such as whether the Carmel Museum of Art might become an appropriate occupant of prepared quarters in the Sunset Center.

These are some of the considerations one hears most often among those who ponder taxes vs. heritage. Proper vault and fire security seem to be a problem at the Center which may be remedied jointly with future post office construction in the programmed-to-be-defunct playground.

Members of the taxpayers' revolt are quick to point out that Carmel should not entertain any notion of acquiring additional real estate at this time.

This brings us back to the matter of whether the April 14th Proposition 2 vote really binds the City Council after all!

Let's hope these and other pertinent questions are explored and aired when the five City Council hopefuls get together for a "Candidates Night" this Friday. Admiral C.W. Fisher and the Citizen's Committee are to be highly complimented for rendering this needed public service.

Will we see YOU there, Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Patron of the Arts and Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Taxpayer?

Sincerely yours,
BERTRAM F. RUDOLPH, JR.

P.O. Box 2302

Gentlemen:

As a 23-year resident of Carmel, and having watched the proliferation of gas stations in town, I have very strong feelings about adding any more.

I see no reason whatsoever why a Mobil station should be allowed on the corner of Junipero and Fifth, as I have read it is proposed. In fact, I see no reason why one company should have more than one station in town.

In order to decrease the number of gas stations and add something which is really necessary, as long as the motels and merchants urge visitors to come here, I have a really radical idea. I would like to see the Standard station on Ocean done away with and a new, small, attractive park built there instead, with public rest rooms and attendants to take care of them built so they would be relatively inconspicuous from the streets. I think it is disgraceful that there are no such facilities for the public and that the Pine Inn and gas stations have to bear a burden which the city should be taking care of.

I hope the Carmel Council will give this new thought serious consideration. If it is impractical to use the Standard Oil property for this purpose, rest rooms should be built under Devendorf Plaza.

Very truly yours,
HELEN LAMBERT

Dear Editor:

There has been no rebuttal argument on Ballot Proposition No. 1, presented to the voters of Carmel-by-the-Sea, primarily because none was asked for; this being a proposal by the present city administrator, who is responsible for preparation of the ballot.

For years, the citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea have maintained a close relationship with the council and administrative officers, strongly supporting the principle of home rule. The responsibility of having elective administrators answerable not only to the council but to the voters has maintained this principle.

By having the offices of administrator or City Clerk, and treasurer appointive by the council, rather than elective, an erosion of home rule will result, leading to the possible creation of a city managers office, which has been rejected by the citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea in the past. Hiring a city manager who more than likely would not be a resident of the city, could very seriously contribute to the loss of that special empathy which Carmelites feel for the community. The rejection of this proposal is strongly urged -- a "NO" vote on proposition No. 1.

Sincerely,

DOROTHEA ROBERTS,
Native Citizen

Dear Editor:

The Beacon House Board of Directors and the Art Auction Committee wish to express their sincere appreciation for the publicity given to our recent Preview and Auction.

We well recognize that publicity is the chief key to success, which was proved this year. In our eleven year experience, this was our most successful one.

Special mention given to the artists in their respective communities was indeed helpful to them. Many of these artists have contributed every year and well deserve recognition for assisting in maintaining this recovery center for the alcoholic which in turn returns them to productive lives in their community.

Again our warm thanks for your support.

Sincerely
MARY K. SHEPARD

Twenty-two students of the Carmel High School, led by Miss Sharon Elliott, will attend the opening night of the San Francisco Ballet's Spring Season at the War Memorial Opera House on Saturday.

The group will see the beautiful classic fairy tale "Beauty and the Beast" choreographed by Lew Christensen to music by Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky. Leading roles will be danced by guest star Marri Tikkanen from Finland, and San Francisco's own Lynda Meyer.

Reviews for Young Readers

by Allene Fremier

BLACKBOARD BEAR, with story and pictures by Martha Alexander, has something that many picture books don't have — it's unpredictable. I read it and enjoyed the pert drawings, and I was surprised at the ending. It's about a little boy who is told he is too little to play cops and robbers and Indians with the older boys and is told to go inside and play with his teddy bear. He throws his little bear out the window and draws a big one on the blackboard and then takes him out to show him to the other boys. But he won't let them ride him or pet him. Having made his point, he then takes the bear in to lunch, which consists of a blackboard cowboy, Indian, cop and robber. It's delicious.

Jeanne Bendick, who has written many beginning books on science and other matters, including HOW MUCH AND HOW MANY, THE FIRST BOOK OF FISHES, THE HUMAN SENSES and many others, has a new one out which is also part of the Science Experiences series. LIVING THINGS is a book which deals with concepts and definitions of words connected with the process of living. The two-color line drawings are clear and helpful and each section ends with either "What do you think?" or "Try for yourself." It discusses environment, carbon dioxide, chlorophyll, leaves etc. and has an index, too. It would be a good tool for either a school project or for home use. Another new one by the same author is WHY CAN'T I?, containing far less information, but attempting to answer some of the "why can't I?" questions, such as live under water as a fish, fly like a bird, see in the dark like a cat and so on. It is not meant to be taken seriously, although the answers are sensible. One warning given is that if you had six feet like a fly, it would mean tying six pairs of shoelaces each morning.

MIDSHIPMAN PLOWRIGHT, by James T. Pole, looks like a winner especially for boys, but there is enough here to interest the girls, too. Midshipman Jason Plowright attended the new United States Naval Academy at Annapolis during its opening year and became friends with his three roommates, Brad, Beaver and Ash. The novel is based on Naval Academy records and the memoirs of early graduates. After graduation, the four friends are assigned to sea duty during the Mexican War. There is lots of action, as well as some history, making this a good choice for older readers.

"CARNIVAL", a lively musical featuring clowns, jugglers, dancing girls and magicians, will open at Carmel High School April 30. Appearing in the cast will be Nancy Ataide, above, as Rosalie, and Rick Humm as Marco the Magnificent. Diana Hardy is directing the production, which will be given in Brey Hall at 8 p.m. on the nights of April 30 and May 1, 2, 7, 8 and 9.

DOES CARMEL NEED A NEW LIBRARY?

Controversy looms over new site for library

ISSUE:

Should Harrison Memorial Library move from its present location at Ocean and Lincoln to a new, not yet built, building at Sunset Cultural Center?

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE:

The Board of Trustees of the library had Clayton Neill, the City Engineer, survey the proposed location at Sunset for the new library. They also have hired an architect, Keeble and Rhoda, to submit drawings and a model. If adopted, the Board can begin to build pending final approval of the site by the City Council.

OPINIONS:

The views expressed pit sentimentalists against functionalists, with one legalist questioning the whole issue. Many people, including members of the library board, have weighed the present crowded conditions, lack of facilities, and inadequate parking against their love of the building, and found the building lacking. Others, especially Carmel's long-time residents, have grown up with Harrison Memorial Library, and do not want it to move or change. Another person, Carmel realtor Bill Pentony, plans to take the original deed to an attorney, protesting that it says the library must remain on its present property due to the wishes of the donor, Mrs. Ella Reid Harrison.

"People have used Harrison Memorial library as a home away from home for years," said Mrs. Ruth Otrich, a Carmel resident for over 25 years.

"It is centrally located, it has a friendly atmosphere, and if it goes to Sunset it will be way out of the way. I realize the librarians might not like the library the way it is, but if it was moved it would be a real disaster for the people who have used the library for so many years."

Would she find a library at Sunset less out of the way if the post office was also moved there? (The Federal government has already approved that location.)

"No," she said. "The post office has moved all my life. You just expect it to move every once in a while. But the library is an institution of Carmel, and it would bother me greatly to see it moved. Retired General Arthur Mason, who uses the library's reading room five days a week, agrees with her.

"I'm 110 percent against the move. Being a traditionalist, I sort of like to have things the way they are."

He thinks the problems can be solved at the present location. "If there is overcrowding, it's because people not from Carmel who don't pay our taxes are using it," he said. "Only people in the city limits pay the 38 cents out of $100 assessed valuation." One way of solving the problem of lack of space would be moving the children's library, according to the General.

"They could build an annex on the present parking lot at less cost than building a new library," he said.

Still more people are concerned about the proposed move from love of the actual building.

"I've no objection to the library moving. All I'm concerned about is what will happen to the old building," said Steve Crouch, Carmel photographer.

"The building should stay for two reasons -- it adds a certain 'THING' TO THE TOWN, AND IT'S A Maybeck-designed building. I just don't want to see a Mobil station put in its place. 'I'm not for progress anymore, not as it's defined today as onward and upward," he said.

The people who want to build a new library share many of these sentiments, but they don't see any way to solve the library's problems in its present location.

"I love the library, I really do, and I realize that many people who have lived here longer than I have a very fond feeling for it. But it is just not functional," says Mrs. Pat Sipple, president of the Library Board.

"The building is built on five levels, and there are no book lifts and obviously no elevators, so the librarians have to carry many books up and down the stairs," she continued.

"Also, we don't have room for the books we have now, and we are getting more books all the time. We are basically storing a book every time we get a new one."

The objection that the new library would not be centrally located is not necessarily true, according to Mrs. Sipple.

"In my estimation, Sunset Center, and specifically where we want to locate at the South end is geographically more centralized to the population than the downtown location.

"I realize that there are a great many people, especially the older residents, who walk downtown maybe to get something to eat, and then stop at the library. But Sunset is not that much further for walkers, and there will be parking for those who drive," she said.

"We're starting out with the point of view that nothing can be done to expand the old building and something has to give. The board felt unanimously that we should look into a larger building, one that would hold more books and do library functions a little better, so we made the big step and hired the architects, Keeble and Rhoda."

"We think in terms that something new can be as good as the old," she continued. "We are constantly in touch with the architects, and we are confident we can come up with a functional building without throwing out comfortableness and hominess."

"I don't want to sound like some of the young people who just want to tear down and start over, but when something isn't working it's time to look for something new, and I think we can present a building to the public they will respond to rationally, not just emotionally."

If the library does move to Sunset, the benefits will be two sided, according to Mrs. Sipple.

"I feel very strongly that Sunset can use a library," she said. "They're now struggling to get people to come and see what is down there."

"If they had a library more people would come. The library is open until 9 p.m., so many of the evening programs at Sunset would have better attendance," she added.

Mrs. Dorothy Bowman, manager of Sunset Center, also sees the two way benefit.

"We want the exposure to the pedestrian traffic," she said. "We want people to come here, and they will, especially if they have a dual purpose."

Mrs. Bowman shares one dream for the new library with Mrs. Martel Stover -- both would like to see a fine arts library with everything the artists and artisans at Sunset need in a library.

Mrs. Stover, a qualified librarian, ran such a library for ten years in La Jolla, Calif.

"What I would like to see, and what would be great for Carmel since we do have a marvelous cultural center and the Bach Festival, which is internationally known, not to mention the Carmel Music Society concerts, would be to have the whole library situated at Sunset and include a special music and fine arts department," she said.

"I do really think this is a workable idea, and it could work in Carmel very easily," she continued. "We already have the nucleus and the setting for it."

Mrs. Stover's enthusiasm for the proposed library is shared by Carmel mayor Barney Laiolo but many of the reasons are different.

"The parking situation would be far better," he said. "The new building would have parking on the grounds plus parking on the adjoining streets."

The present parking lot would then become a city parking lot, although the eight car capacity would probably not greatly alleviate the parking problem on Ocean Ave.

Laiolo also has an eye on the building itself. "Ultimately the library would become an excellent city hall," he said. "That would put the present city hall back on the tax roll where it belongs, and it would make an excellent parking area plus maybe an office building above."

He has no plans to tear down the library. In fact, he is against the idea of remodeling the present library by building on the space that is now a garden.

"If you took out the garden you would ruin the whole feeling of the building," he said. "The building is one of Carmel's landmarks and I wouldn't change it at all."

In checking the original deed to the Harrison Memorial Library, Carmel resident Bill Pentony found the following instructions:

"Therefore it is hereby ordered, adjudged and decreed, that there by and there is hereby distributed to the Board of Trustees of the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the following described property of the estate of Ella Reid Harrison, deceased, to wit:

(The 4 1/2 lots the library is now on.)

"In trust to said board of trustees of the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and its successors, for the following eleemosynary (charitable) purposes, namely: to build, construct, equip and maintain in library service in the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea, with and by the property hereby distributed and the proceeds, issues, and profits thereof, for the use, benefit, and upon behalf of the people, generally, of the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea, which said public library building shall be known as 'Ralph Chandler Harrison Memorial Library.'"

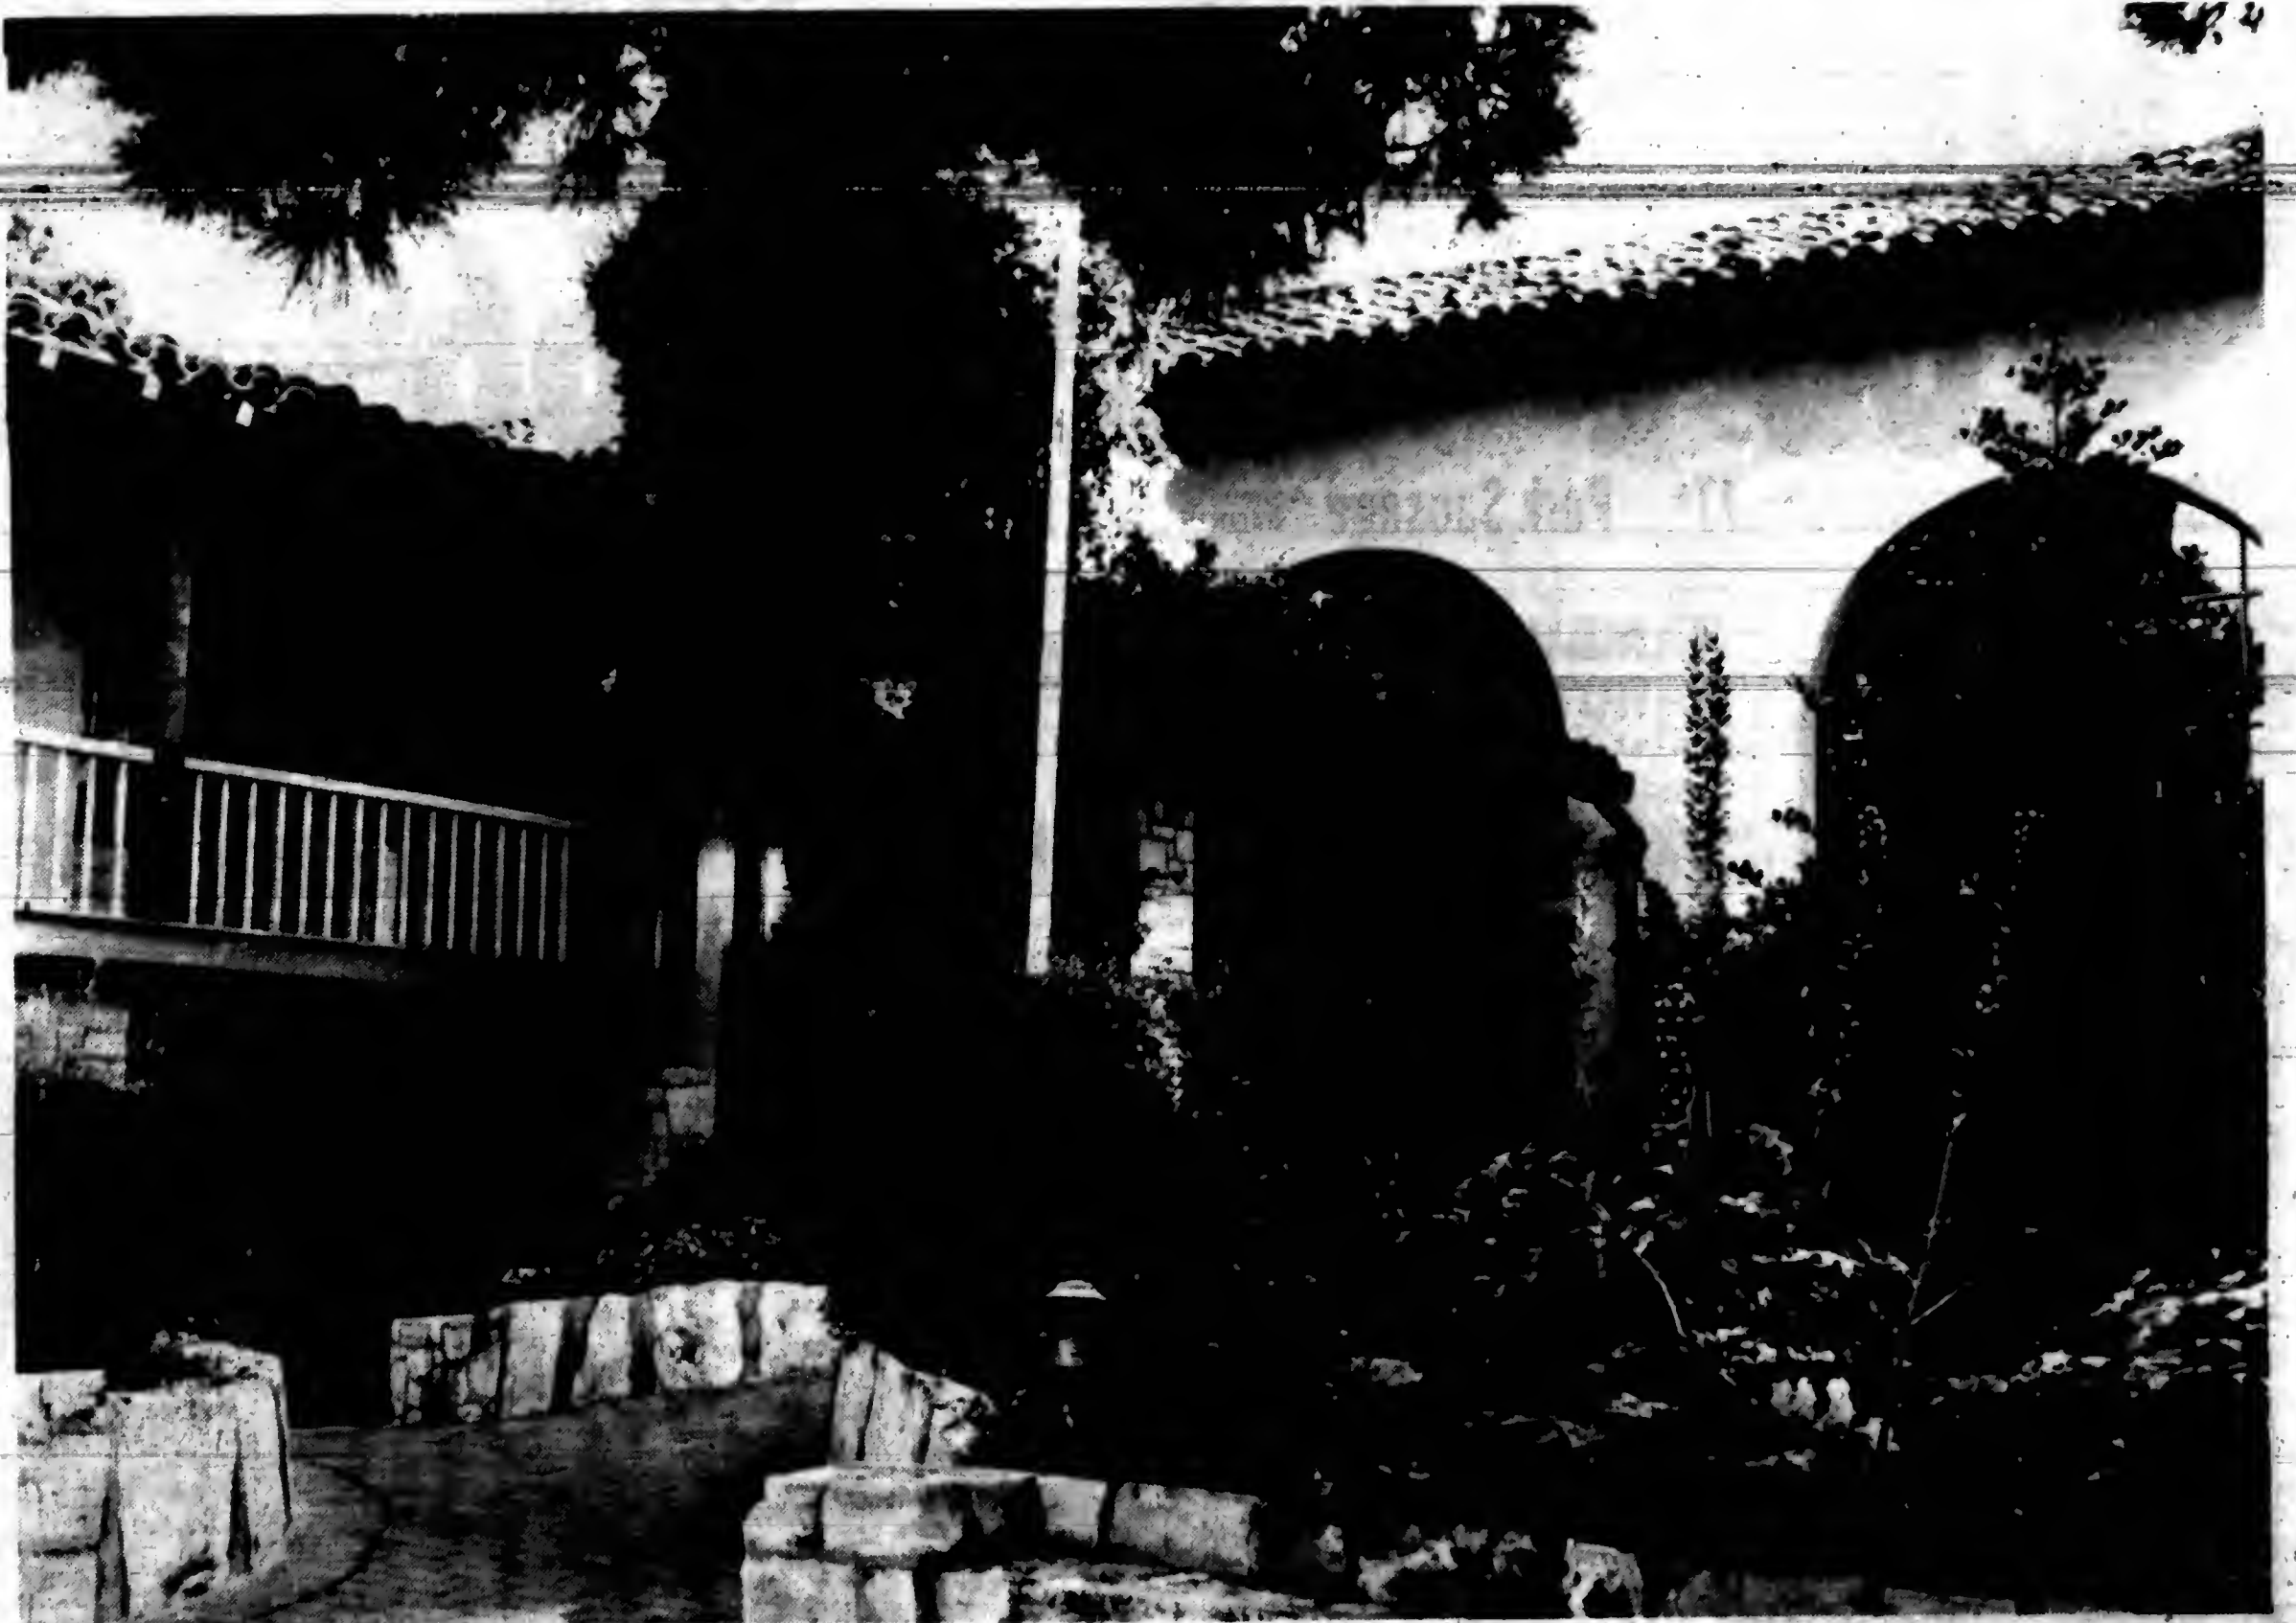

Pentony, therefore, does not want the library to change locations, and plans to take the deed to an attorney.

What should happen to Harrison Memorial Library remains a moot question, although definite sides are forming.

Those fighting to keep the library where and as it is will have to answer to those who say the building is unworkable, and those people in turn will have to again evaluate the importance of tradition and sentiment.

And, in the end, the people who want change may have to find a solution within the present location.

Ella Reid Harrison evidently doesn't want the library to move.

C.V. Racquet Club loses to Stanford

A determined women's "A" team from the Carmel Valley Racquet Club fell to the Stanford girl netters in a match that was closer than the 4-2 score indicates.

The Stanford team is considered by many to be the finest in the country. Head Pro Leoncio Collas was pleased with the team's showing and is working on a future match with the girls at the University of California.

The Racquet Club's two wins came in the doubles with Sadako McFeron - Julie Beck turning in a convincing 6-3, 6-4 victory and Jill Leach - Norma Miller pulling out a tough three setter in which Mrs. Leach had to be replaced by Mary Moore when she sprained her ankle early in the third set.

CAVENDROPING

"It wouldn't be Carmel if we didn't stop here for an enchilada," said a trim, graying lady visitor, as her portly silver-haired husband seated her in a Village specialty restaurant.

When the waitress appeared, the lady said, "I'll have an -- no, that's not on my new diet. I'll have two plain scrambled eggs and a green salad."

"And you, sir?" inquired the waitress.

"I," said the portly gentleman, "will have a chili relleno with rice and beans. And an enchilada."

It wouldn't be Carmel --

Generalizations are dangerous things. They tend to be misleading, based on folklore, or downright untrue. If you own a quiet, stable-tempered Toy Poodle you will be angered by the statement, "all Toy Poodles are nervous and snappy." If your pet is a demanding, affectionate cat who loves you and responds to you as much as the average dog would do, you will be incensed when someone says, "all cats are cold and aloof." Not only is your pet the living proof that these generalizations are untrue, but you tend to resent such sweeping denunciations of anything.

Yet, for generations, people have accepted as fact various absurd statements about pet care. "All dogs have worms," we hear, and if it is said authoritatively, we tend to believe it.

All dogs do not have worms, any more than all children suck their thumbs. If we approach the problem of intestinal parasites in the dog as a valid medical problem and not as a casual thing, we begin to see that the two prevalent attitudes toward worms are dangerous. One school of thought believes that since all dogs have worms, the best approach is to ignore the problem and accept it as part of being a dog. The opposing school, equally erroneous, believes that all dogs should routinely be dosed with commercially available "worm medicines."

The truth lies somewhere between these extremes. Some grown dogs and many puppies do have worms. Dogs who have them should be treated for them; dogs who are worm-free should never be given worm remedies as a routine measure. All worm killers (vermifuges) are poisons, and unless the correct medicine for the type of worm present is administered in correct dosage, a dog can be made seriously ill or even killed.

Dogs may be infested with four types of worms. The most common and easiest to treat are roundworms or ascarids. Because puppies born to a mother who herself has worms may be infested before birth, roundworms are frequently called puppy worms. However, we repeat, all puppies do not have worms at birth, nor do all puppies acquire worms. Conscientious breeders make sure their brood matrons are worm-free and, through cleanliness and good dog management are often able to raise litters who never learn what it is to have a worm.

Because the chances are that your experience with worms will be limited to the two commonest types, we will discuss symptoms. In roundworm infestation, signs include the passing of live worms, which resemble spaghetti and which have a tendency to curl up into "springs" in stools and even vomiting worms. Another symptom is a tautly rounded abdomen in a young pup; this is frequently mistaken as healthy puppy fat, but usually a wormy puppy is not fat all over; he may be absolutely skinny except for the bloated stomach.

Tapeworm is the second most frequent intestinal parasite, and where there are tapeworms there have been fleas. The flea is the host which tapeworm larva develop; flea bites dog, dog bites the itching area, swallows the flea and thereby swallows tapeworm!

Many dogs seem to tolerate mild tapeworm infestations quite well. Usually, these worms are discovered when segments are passed either in the stool or found clinging to the hair around the dog's anus. These segments look like small pink-white grains of rice when first passed and then dry to a brown color. Sometimes, itching caused by the tapeworm segments causes a dog to skid his rear end over the ground or carpeting. However, this "sledding" action is not a sure indication of worms. Most often it is caused by impacted anal glands, an entirely unrelated condition. When your puppy pulls himself along like this don't run out to buy worm medicine!

Whipworm and hookworm are the other two frequently found dog worms, although heartworm is prevalent in sections of this country. Both hookworm and whipworm are harder to cure than the first two varieties and tend to be more debilitating to the dog.

All cases of actual or suspected worms require veterinary attention. If you have found actual worms in stools and are certain of your identification of the worm, you can take the dog to your vet and tell him you saw roundworms or tapeworm segments. Frequently, he will want to check further before worming the dog. If you have not found actual worms, but suspect their presence, your vet can check a stool sample which you bring to him. Microscopic examination of stool is the final proof of worms.

Your vet will then give you instructions about possibly fasting the dog before worming and on eradicating worm eggs and host parasites from the dog's bedding and quarters. Frequently, to assure that unhatched worm eggs are eliminated, wormings are repeated after ten days or two weeks.

If you care enough about your dog to want him to be alert, happy, healthy and comfortable, you will want him to be worm-free. And you will also want the assurance that this is accomplished by a qualified veterinarian and not by some haphazard method. Two small points to remember: candy and sweets do not cause worms in dogs, and garlic does not cure them! All these foods do is cause fat dogs with bad breath!

With Bob Wood In Sacramento

Having recovered sufficiently from the pneumonia bug and with spring just around the corner I moved back onto the good old boat and now my backyard, again, is the Sacramento River. The other morning I woke up to the call of sea gulls (it sounded good to hear them as we are probably 75 miles from the ocean). However, they didn't stay long; and they didn't leave a note as to why they left, but when one sees the color of the Sacramento River and one knows that most of our principal rivers throughout the United States, including the Sacramento, are the thoroughfare for waste products from industrial and chemical discharges to raw sewage, a person can soon understand why the beautiful Sacramento River is forced to show the color of her dirty linen and why the pretty white (rinse blue) sea gulls didn't stay very long. I hope that those same sea gulls won't give up but will return again some day, because I think the worm has turned and man is beginning to make a sincere effort to change a way of life which probably all of us are, or have been, guilty to some degree.

Remember a few years ago when there was a big furor over atomic power plants or nuclear generated facilities of any kind; in spite of some protests several plants were installed, and after several years of operation the engineers and even some conservation minded people are beginning to realize that they may be less of a hazard than our fossil fuel power plants (those burning oil) and the accompanying danger of their pollution. In the case of nuclear powered facilities the old stigma involved in radiation leaks or the naive conviction that the facility will blow up, has not proven to be the case. A joint committee on electrical needs here in Sacramento has received a report from the State Resources Agency that ten new power plants, six in northern California, four in southern California, will likely be needed in the next twenty years. If I recall there was considerable talk a year or so ago that possibly one of the new plants might be located in the Moss Landing industrial area. As far as I know, this has never been confirmed.

I think most of us realize that ecology is the key word with a new awakening of our citizens to the environment and their demand for safe guards for protecting it. The problem, however, is that while people enjoy and even depend on having power available when they turn on a switch nobody wants to have a generator facility near by. It should always be put "over there" - close enough for benefit but far enough away that it can't be seen or heard. This new joint committee on atomic development has a tough problem ahead. They must determine the actual needs for electrical power, and also decide under what criteria the new power facility should be located and constructed. They will have to review and approve all sites for the location of nuclear or gas power generating plants. The legislation would place major emphasis on integration of the plants into the ecology of the proposed location. Enuf for now -

by Phyllis Jervey

This time of year, when everything is fresh and blooming, tender young vegetables taste best. Take asparagus so green and reasonable now. It is a very versatile vegetable. Lemon, garlic, onion, or curry butter, hollandaise, mushroom or cheese sauce are among the favorite companions for fresh western-grown asparagus.

Sauteed onions, mushrooms, crisply fried bacon, chopped hard-cooked eggs are all delicious when sprinkled lightly over green asparagus spears. Remember, too, that fresh asparagus souffles, omelets and other combinations of asparagus with ham, turkey, chicken are easily prepared.

So nutritious, yet extremely low in calories. It is, as we know it in the United States, just one of about 150 species of asparagus and only one of several kinds that are edible. It originated in Mediterranean lands and Asia Minor where it grows wild today.

Raw Asparagus?

Northern Europeans and Englishmen have been enjoying fresh asparagus since recorded history. The English ate it raw. As the 16th century writer, Evelyn, wrote that "asperage" was "delicious eaten raw with 'oyl' and vinegar." This admired vegetable was probably brought to America with the earliest settlers. English and American colloquialisms range from "sparagass to sparrowgrass". Now it is known in the vegetable trade as plain "grass".

In Germany, Holland, Belgium and France asparagus is always white as it is grown underground and never sees sunlight. It is beautifully tasteworthy and very expensive when imported to our country. The same ideas we're giving soon, for the cuisine, apply to both types, the green and the white.

Asparagus is an old vegetable, as far as origination. It was popular with the Romans away back in 200 B.C., when Cato gave detailed instructions for growing this vegetable. Preparation was so simple that Emperor Augustus' favorite remark was "quicker than you can cook asparagus."

Long Producer

Do you know that asparagus is a perennial plant that takes three years to establish. However once a bed is started it may remain productive for about 30 years, depending upon conditions. When this "ancient" plant appears above the ground (never in Europe) it grows rapidly from 8 to 10 inches in one day.

Enough of history. Here is today.

To prepare asparagus for cooking, break off each stalk; it snaps easily. Wash well, removing scales. Leave stalks whole or break into 1-inch lengths. Tie whole stalks with string. Stand upright in top of clean coffee percolator, or bottom of double boiler. Cover and cook until just tender, about 15 min.

Whole stalks may also be cooked covered in skillet in a small amount of salted water. Or put asparagus into double foil folded into strips long enough to lift from pan. Then lower these foil packets into boiling water and cook about 15 min. Serve in foil with your favorite sauce.

Now that we've committed ourselves to write only about asparagus:

Asparagus Brucheeon

Roll cooked stalks of asparagus into thinly sliced cooked ham. Place two rolls in individual casseroles. Cover with a tangy cheese sauce and bake in 425 F. oven until piping hot but still delicately browned. Watch your oven.

Asparagus with Nutmeg

Cook 2 lbs. asparagus, covered, until tender in small amount of boiling salted water. Drain. Sprinkle with freshly grated nutmeg, pouring melted butter over all. Serves 4-6.

Crema d'Asperge

(Cream of Asparagus Soup)

Three T. Crisco or bacon fat; 2 bunches fresh asparagus; 1 bunch chopped scallions; 1 minced clove garlic; few drops of fresh lemon juice or to taste; salt and pepper, also to taste; 4 T. flour; 4 cups chicken consomme (canned); ½ cup cream; 1 egg yolk, mixed into 2 T. cream; paprika and minced fresh parsley for topping.

Melt fat in pan. Withhold about 18 asparagus tips, then add remaining sliced ones. Add next four items. Cook slowly until good consistency for a soup base. Stir in flour, adding water to make a roux (smooth sauce commencement). Stir until you have the right nuance, simmer about 10 min., watching continuously. Rub through strainer and return to pan. Add the 18 asparagus tips, drained. Then add cream. Reheat carefully, never permitting to boil. When ready to serve do so from an heirloom tureen or just a brightly colored kitchen mixing bowl. Above all do not boil after adding the egg. Who likes curdling?

Sole with Asparagus

One lb. asparagus spears; 4 sole filets; salt, pepper, grated lemon rind to taste; 3 T. melted butter; 2 T. lemon juice; 1 T. finely chopped shallot; 1 t. Dijon mustard. Serves 4.

Preheat oven to 400 F. Cut fresh asparagus into 2-3 inch lengths. Cook in lightly salted boiling water 5 min.; drain. Season skin side of sole with salt, pepper, lemon rind. Place asparagus spears at one end of each filet. Roll these up, spears inside, and secure with toothpicks. Place in well buttered baking dish. Combine remaining items and pour over fish. Bake until fish flakes easily, basting twice. Do not overcook. This is a lovely luncheon dish with fruit and cheese for dessert.

Asparagus Vinaigrette

Serve cooked asparagus, cut into slanted slices, with a vinaigrette sauce: Put in bottom of a one pint screw-top bottle 1 t. salt, ½ t. onion salt, black pepper, mustard each, 2 t. lemon juice. Pour over 4 T. tarragon vinegar and 1 cup olive oil. Add finely chopped hard cooked egg with mixed chopped herbs such as parsley, chives, marjoram, tarragon, dill. Chopped onion and garlic with gherkin and capers are also included. Serve icy cold on romaine or endive leaves.

We're finishing this account of asparagus with the way we always serve it at our house.

Asparagus, Chinese Style

In an electric skillet at the table, cook raw asparagus cut into very thin slanted slices. Cook over lowest heat in melted butter (1 lb. asparagus calls for 1 T. butter.) Cover pan until asparagus is barely tender, adding more butter with a sprinkling of seasoned salt.

SPRING CHORAL CONCERT SUNDAY

The Monterey Peninsula College Chorus, conducted by Dr. Harvey Marshall, will appear in MPC's 20th annual spring choral concert Sunday, at 8:30 p.m. in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Carmel.

The concert, featuring Camille Olaeta as accompanist on the church organ, is open to the public without charge.

Handel's "A Canticle of Praise" will open the evening, featuring student soloists Bill Gammons, bass; Lorraine Hilvar, soprano; Charles Hartley, baritone; Will La Born, baritone; and Jean Holland, mezzo-soprano.

Guest soloist Robert Armstead, an assistant professor of physics at the Naval Postgraduate School who is well known locally for his work in the Carmel Bach Festival, adult choruses and churches, will then sing "Ich habe genug," a solo cantata for bass by Bach.

The program also includes: "A II Breathing Life, Sing and Praise Ye the Lord," J.S. Bach; "Jubilate Deo Omnis Terra," a work written to the words of Psalm 99 by Flor Peeters, a modern Belgian composer; "Cantique de Jean Racine" by Gabriel Faure; and the Hallelujah Chorus from Beethoven's cantata "Mount of Olives." The last work was prepared by the chorus to honor the bicentennial of the composer's birth in 1770, according to Marshall.

Engagement luncheon for Nan Jorgensen

The engagement of Peggy Newton and Alan L. Rector of Portland, Oregon, is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Newton. A small family wedding is planned in June.

Peggy is a graduate of Carmel High School in 1962 and of Pomona College where she and Alan were classmates. After working at New York University, Peggy went to the University of Minnesota last fall to do advanced work in child psychology. Alan served in the Peace Corps in the Philippines before entering the University of Chicago Medical School where he is completing his second year. This summer he will transfer to the medical school at the University of Minnesota and the young couple will live in Minneapolis.

Peggy has one brother, Gary Fairbank Newton, a sophomore at the University of California at Berkeley. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. H. Melville Newton of Canterbury Woods who has spent many summers in Carmel and the late Mr. Newton and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fairbank of St. Louis.

Alan is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Rector of Portland and the brother of Mrs. Stanley Chapman of Frankfurt, Germany, and Bruce M. Rector who attends the College of Idaho.

YWCA starts slim class

The Y.W.C.A. Organizing Committee announces a new class in Slimnastics beginning next Monday at the Sunset Center Cafeteria, Carmel.

For ten sessions, the fee is $10.00. By popular request, Mrs. Alfonso (Betty) Veterane is continuing with the group started in February, and is admitting new members. If there are any questions, Mrs. Veterane can be reached at 484-1818.

CAL POLY HONORS TO LOCAL STUDENTS

Nine students from this area have been named to the Dean's List at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo for maintaining a grade average of "B" or better during the fall quarter.

On the Dean's List from Carmel are: Marc A. Bryans, Ken Charles Edward, Kenneth Kline, Tom Millott, Lawrence Schatzmann and Shannon Stein.

Named from Carmel Valley are Beth Augustitus, Thomas Brattin and Joan Broumand.

Mary Jane Spence and Robert Cole wed on March 27

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cole are making their home on Sunridge Road in Pebble Beach following their wedding here on March 27.

Mrs. Cole, the former Mary Jane Spence, is an artist and director of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art. Her husband is manager of the Carmel office of Del Monte Properties, real estate division.

Mrs. Cole is the daughter of Mrs. I. Norman Downer of Carmel. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Reid Cole III of Sante Fe, New Mexico.

Attendants for the wedding ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Paul Gaeta of Crystal Bay, Nevada, long-time friends of the bride.

The couple plans a wedding trip later this spring.

WHO'S WHO IN THE VILLAGE?

Two long-time residents met on Ocean Ave. last Saturday.

"All these people!" sighed one.

"Some of them are awfully funny looking," said the second, shaking her head. "Sh!" cautioned the first, "Some of them are natives."

Garden Award

Wenzler, Baum and Blume Flower Shop was awarded the COCO award for the month of March for their garden located at the Perry House in Monterey.

Landscape designer, Robert N. Wenzler of Carmel, was the coordinator of last year's All Saint's Day School Garden Fair.

New Arrivals

A son, Todd David, born to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jackson, 26275 South Dolores, on March 29.

A daughter, Lisa Diane, born to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Starr, El Caminito, Carmel Valley, March 31.

A son, Christopher John, born to Mr. and Mrs. John Powers, R.L. Stevenson School, Pebble Beach, March 27.

BARBARA NORWICK

Barbara Norwick to receive her 'nursing cap'

Several hundred family members and friends of Merritt's freshmen student nurses will arrive in Oakland from hometowns throughout California on Friday evening, the attraction being the Samuel Merritt Hospital School of Nursing's annual capping ceremony to be held this year at the nearby First Baptist Church.

Among the 62 girls heading confidently toward their chosen careers as they march down the aisle to receive their nursing caps will be Barbara Norwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Norwick of Carmel. Miss Norwick is a graduate of Carmel High School and spent last summer studying at the University of Madrid before entering Merritt Hospital's three-year program in nursing education. A reception in the church parlor will bring to a close the exciting evening which marks the completion of the first seven months of training.

What's in your future?

Life. You have it now, and you always will. Because God is your Life. Christ Jesus proved this. He proved the continuity of life. He said, "This is life eternal that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." You can learn the meaning of this promise and how it can help you today by reading this week's Bible Lesson in our study room.

Engagement of Peggy Newton

Spirited Hungarian music played on an antique French spinet set the tone for a recent engagement luncheon honoring Nan Jorgensen of Pacific Grove and Joseph Poka of Mill Valley.

The party, which also celebrated the future bride's birthday, was held at the home of her parents, Deputy County Counsel and Mrs. Henry I. Jorgensen.

Miss Jorgensen is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry G. Jorgensen of Forest Hill Manor, who attended the luncheon, and the late Superior Court Judge H.G. Jorgensen. Her maternal grandparents were the late Dr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Watkins of Portland, Oregon.

Miss Jorgensen was born in London and spent the first two years of her life in Rome, where her father was an attache at the American Embassy. She has attended schools in Pacific Grove, Santa Catalina School for Girls, the former Cowan School in Carmel Valley, and Monterey Peninsula College. Her fiance was born in Budapest, where his father practiced law until the start of World War II. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Poka, now live in Mill Valley, where the senior Poka is an official with the Nissho-Iwai Company of San Francisco.

The future bridegroom attended San Francisco

State College, the University of Madrid and has a master's degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

A May wedding is planned

Stitchery Class at Town House

A workshop in creative stitchery is again being offered at Town House in Carmel. The instructor is Alice Robertson who is teaching her fourth class here since 1966.

Mrs. Robertson explains that creative stitchery, a modern form of an ancient craft, is a means of self expression which anyone who can thread a needle can pursue with pleasure. No longer must all stitches be exactly alike, just as the leaves of a tree are never exactly alike.

Stitchery by Mrs. Robertson has been exhibited in Carmel, Monterey, and Livermore and she has won awards at the Monterey County Fair. Classes will be from 1 to 3 p.m. on Tuesdays, beginning April 7. Both members of the Carmel Foundation and prospective members are invited to attend.

Helen Dooley 'one-man show' at Carmel Art Assn.

"RITA AND FRIENDS" is one of paintings by Helen Dooley in an exhibit titled "Mexico and the Local Scene" now showing at the Carmel Art Assn. in Carmel. The painting was inspired by a group of children seen five miles outside of Alamos in front of an old museum in Sonora, Mexico.

A "one-man show" of oil paintings by Helen B. Dooley titled, "Mexico and the Local Scene" is now being shown in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Assn. through May 5.

Many of the paintings are the result of a trip taken last December to Guaymas, where Miss Dooley taught a class in oil painting as part of the Richard Yip workshop. Other paintings are based on local scenes, including landscape and figure studies.

Miss Dooley has painted and exhibited in the Carmel area for more than 20 years. She recently established her own gallery in Carmel on San Carlos between 5th and 6th. Miss Dooley's work has been exhibited nationwide and has won many awards, including a "first" in Society of Western Artists awarded in the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

Her most recent one-man shows have been at Lord & Taylor Galleries in New York and a show at San Jose City College in March.

The current exhibition is

Wednesday, April 15, 2:30 p.m., is Music Day at the Carmel Foundation. Mrs. Helen Shutes has invited Christine Pfund of San Francisco to entertain guests and members with her Flute. Her selections will consist of classics and one modern. She will be accompanied by Fred Schaad of Carmel. Tea will follow the program.

Yancy Toldi of Carmel beat the holiday crowds to Heavenly Valley and spent the weekend before Easter enjoying the clear, warm weather.

Other visitors to the area included Howard S.

the first of this year's series of one-man shows to be held in the Beardsley Room by members of the Carmel Art Assn. during the Spring and Fall months.

The Carmel Art Assn. is located on Dolores between 5th and 6th.

Bucquet of Carmel and his son, Buck, who drove up from Reno to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Campbell, Howard S. Buck's daughters son-in-law.

Dewey L. Carpenter of Pebble Beach was also a Valley visitor last week.

Spring vacationing at the Santa Barbara Biltmore are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood and family of Pebble Beach, Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Allen, 3 White Oak Way, Carmel Valley, Mrs. A.H. Balsley, 4153 Searidge Rd., Pebble Beach, and Captain and Mrs. Adolph P. Schneider, 1043 Laurel Lane, Carmel.

Carmel travel agent, James Ashley is Hong Kong bound this month. He will cruise to the island, visiting en route, the ports of Los Angeles, Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagasaki.

Capt. (USN) and Mrs. F. H. Burnham of Pebble Beach, entertained recently with a cocktail-buffet for the civilian heads of the Naval Postgraduate School's academic departments and their wives.

Carmel High students to tell of experiences abroad

Three Carmel High School students who have recently returned from a year abroad in the American Field Service program will tell of their experiences next Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. at Carmel Middle School Library. The public is invited.

Sherri Stuart spent a year with a family in Baden, Austria, and enjoyed trips to nearby Vienna. Many times she spoke in German to Austrian groups about the United States. Santa Fe, an inland river port in Argentina, was home for Athena Shudde. She and her "family" lived in an apartment in the busy city and she spoke Spanish both in school and at home. Lynn Fryback has just returned from a year of speaking and studying in Japanese while living with a Japanese family in a small fishing village near Tokyo.

The public is invited to hear Athena Shudde, Sharon Stuart and Lynn Fryback. They will tell about living with foreign families, compare education in other countries and share numerous experiences of teenagers learning the customs of other lands.

Each student was selected from Carmel High School and entered national competition to become an "American Abroad" on the AFS International Scholarship program. Currently Charles Schetter is representing Carmel High School in Kaitia, North Island, New Zealand. This year Rene Madelaire from Denmark and Cynthia Leslie from England are attending Carmel High School.

Cynthia Leslie of London enjoys life here

A soft, gray drizzle was falling as Cynthia Leslie of London landed at New York's Kennedy airport. She arrived in the United States, December 15 to begin a year of study sponsored by the American Field Service Committee.

As Cynthia disembarked, she caught sight of a billboard advertisement for Scotch Whisky. "That and the rain made me feel rather at home," she said.

The American Field Service has become well known in English high schools. To qualify as an exchange student in the program, Cynthia wrote a 600 word essay on herself and filled in "reams of forms." She obtained references and underwent three sets of interviews before her papers were sent to London. When the forms were accepted, Cynthia traveled to London for further interviews.

Meanwhile, a family in America was being sought that would be similar in background to her own. When interviews were completed, Cynthia was notified that she had been selected to study in Carmel and that the Hugh Smiths were to be her "American family."

Cynthia began her study in the United States with a three day orientation program in New York. Then she flew to California to begin the spring semester as a senior at Carmel High School.

In England, high school students specialize early. They concentrate in depth on two or three subjects and so Cynthia found her courses at Carmel High School much more varied than her work had been at home.

The 11 plus exam, which is given to British school children at the age of 11 to channel them into either industrial or college preparatory education has been abolished in many counties. Cynthia's home county, Surrey, still has secondary modern (vocational) and grammar (college preparatory) schools, but most other counties have combined non-academic and academic training into a single school.

Cynthia attended Cheltenham Ladies College, a girl's "Public" school. The English "public" school corresponds to our idea of a private school. Cheltenham Ladies College is college preparatory and from 50% to 70% of its graduates go on to a university.

Cynthia has found interesting differences in her life as a Carmel High School senior. The atmosphere here is much more informal and students "dash off" after lessons. In England, students would discuss the day's lesson and take a breather before moving on to their next class.

If she were studying in England this year, Cynthia would have been a first year student at Bristol University. There she would concentrate on her chosen profession, law.

An English college student "reads" one subject to receive a degree. He may then read other subjects or continue working in his chosen field.

Cynthia plans to do 2½ years of "practical work" after passing her law exam. It is her ambition to be a solicitor. She would then be able to deal directly with her clients, unlike a barrister, whose chief work is to research cases assigned to them by the solicitor.

Cynthia has inherited her interest in law from her father, Frank Gilbert Leslie. "My father is a judge," she explains, "and we rather enjoy trying on his wig."

Although she speaks with humor about her father, Cynthia is serious about the study of law. When she returns to England she will begin working in earnest to become one of the few woman solicitors in the country.

She expresses the wish to combine a personal and academic approach to her work and hopes the knowledge and insight she gains as an exchange student will give her a greater ability to do so.

TIME FOR TEA — Cynthia Leslie, center, an American Field Service exchange student from England, treats her American "mother" and "father" Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith to tea.

Camp Amigos now taking applications

Applications are now available for campers and counselors for Camp Amigos in Carmel Valley.

The integrated summer day camp is open to children 7 to 11½ years old who will be in the second through sixth grades next September. Any child living on the Monterey Peninsula is eligible to attend for a one-week session.

The popular day camp will open its third season on the grounds of the All Saints' Day School in Carmel Valley on Monday, July 20.

Three day camp sessions will be held: July 20-24; July 27-31; and August 3-7.

There will also be an overnight camp for fifth and sixth graders from August 10 to 14 at the Big Sur campgrounds owned by All Saints' Episcopal Church.

The day camp program offers a full range of hiking, swimming, sports, crafts and cookouts. On Thursdays campers bring bed rolls or sleeping bags for an overnight stay on the Day School property. Every afternoon there is a special trip to the beach, the Carmel Valley Community pool, Saddle Mountain Ranch or other recreational areas.

Camp Amigos camper applications will be available at several Carmel churches and schools, or they may be obtained directly from Mrs. Peter Sherman, 624-8624.

Camp fees, deliberately set low to encourage participation by children of all economic backgrounds, are $1 a week for the day camp, and $2 for the week at Big Sur.

This fee is all-inclusive, covering meals, crafts supplies, swimming charges and bus transportation for children from Seaside and Monterey. The parents of children living in Carmel and Carmel Valley are responsible for their own transportation to and from the camp.

Camp Amigos, a registered non-profit corporation, receives most of its support from churches and community service organizations on the Monterey Peninsula, including the Carmel Presbyterian Church, All Saints' Episcopal Church, Carmel Mission Basilica, and the Carmel Kiwanis Club. Parents of campers who wish to contribute an additional amount above the set fee are encouraged to do so.

For the third straight year, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Albert of Monterey will direct the camp. He is the football coach at Monterey High School.

The Alberts will again be assisted by a group of high school counselors, who will be paid $20 a week.

Students interested in applying for counselor positions should attend one of two group interview meetings: Wednesday, April 8, at King Junior High School in Seaside, room F2; or Wednesday, April 15, at All Saints' Church in Carmel. Both interview sessions will start at 7:30 p.m.

Counselor applications may be obtained in advance from high school counseling offices, or from Mrs. Thomas White, 624-3014.

There will be a free medical clinic for counselors and campers at Highlands School in Seaside on Saturday, May 23, at 9:30 a.m.

SIERRA CLUB TO COLLECT MORE ALUMINUM SCRAP

If you believe in re-cycling America's resources, keep saving those aluminum cans, containers and sheets of foil.

That plea came today from the Ventana Chapter of Sierra Club, which last month completed the first round in a collection campaign netting 1,788 pounds of aluminum -- the equivalent of 30,000 containers.

Members of the chapter's high school group played a major part in the initial campaign, said Rod Holmgren, executive committee member. They manned collection depots at high schools in Carmel, Monterey, Seaside and Pacific Grove. "We hope the teenagers will take over the next stage entirely," he added.

In the February collection, high school crews found that many helpful contributors failed to flatten cans adequately. Others brought boxes filled with cans having seamed sides and pinched bottoms, made of tin.

Aluminum cans are distinguishable by their seamless sides and rounded bottoms, Holmgren said. "And remember to rinse off the cake pans and other aluminum containers -- and crush everything, please," he urged.

A spring pickup has been tentatively set for June.

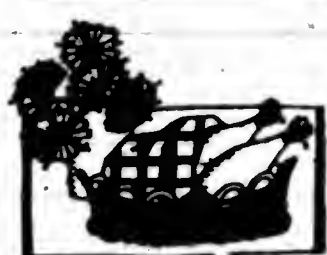

Carmel Youth Center needs new or used reusable merchandise.

Please drop off at Youth Center or Call 624-3285 or 624-1753 for free pick-up.

'Three Bags Full' - an unconventional comedy

"Three Bags Full", Jerome Chodorov's uproarious farce comedy will bring an evening of unconventional fun and hilarious laughter to Peninsula playgoers, when it opens this Friday at the Circle Theatre in Carmel. Under the direction of Michael Keller, this is the sixth attraction of the 1970 Community Theatre season.

Delightful comic characters abound in this mad romp, with Bill Scholefield playing Bascom Barlow, a wolf in sheep's clothing and a roaring lord and master of his loony household. Bill most recently appeared at the Circle as Judge Danforth in "The Crucible".

Joyce Malikoff is Genevieve, Bascom's ding-dong wife. She provides a surprise that lights a fuse for the coming laugh-filled explosions. This season at the Circle, Joyce has played in "The Owl and the Pussycat", "Light Up the Sky" and "The Crucible".

Layne Littlepage has been cast as Angela, their unmarried pregnant daughter. Layne just completed the role of Magdalen in "Family Portrait", and was a winner of the 1968-69 Golden Bough award for her performance in "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty".

Roy Baxter plays Boris, the dashing reckless chauffeur, who even though is terrified of horses joins the Calvary to prove his love for Angela. Roy won the Best Actor of the Year award last season for his performance as Henry II in "The Lion in Winter".

Jean McBride is the downstairs maid who likes to do most of her dusting upstairs. Jean, another Golden Bough award winner, most recently played Elizabeth Proctor in "The Crucible".

Bob Lotz, with fifteen years of professional theatre experience and a Golden Bough award to his credit, plays Cottingham, the hilarious rich banker who controls Bascom's purse strings with a devilish glee.

Annabel Lund, a student of drama at MPC, has the role of Jeanette, a rambunctious little waif caught in a web of comic deceit.

John Sullivan, with years of playing on the road in vaudeville, plays Jenkins, probably the funniest butler ever seen on the Circle stage.

Florence Larsen, so well remembered for her sensitive performances in "The Miracle Worker" and "Ah Wilderness" has this time been cast as Charlotte, the upstairs maid who lets the cat out of the bag and turns Bascom's world topsy-turvy.

Staff for "Three Bags Full" includes Ruth Fry and Mark Oman as stage managers, with Jerry Van Steenberg as production assistant.

The Community Theatre heartily recommends this entertainment for the whole family. It will play Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m., and on Sundays one hour earlier at 7:30 p.m. through May 16th. Phone reservations are accepted by calling 624-2669.

sunrise.....TO SUNSET

by Dorothy Bowman

April ... springtime, new birth, new life, "and the voice of the turtle is heard upon all the land" ... and the voice of children is once again heard at Sunset; this occasioned by sixteen gifted children from Monte Vista School. One field trip and four enthusiastic people later, an idea was born; to be specific, Gary Childs and Mrs. Norma Lazzarina's visit to Sunset for a tour of our Studios, really prompted these ideas to bear fruit, coupled with the enthusiasm of Mrs. Pat Carey, resident of Studio 4 (Carmel Graphics) and your manager. Mr. Childs and Mrs. Lazzarina are in charge of the gifted children's program for the Monterey Board of Education, and through their efforts and inspiration, a ten week program of Drawing & Painting was initiated last Thursday, 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. We all have great expectations for this class as they progress to new medias and techniques.

Saturday afternoon, the scene will again be repeated as children throughout the Peninsula area converge on Studio 4 for lessons in Drawing and Painting; classes will be held from 2:00-4:30 and there are still openings available. For further information, Call Mrs. Pat Carey, 373-4048, or 624-3996. Drawings and Paintings drawn by these Thursday and Saturday Classes will be on display in the Cafeteria (converted Gallery) as time goes by.

Speaking of converted areas, Monday 9:30-10:30, will launch an additional activity in the old School Cafeteria. Mrs. Jade Kirkpatrick, spearheading the drive to initiate plans for a new Y.W.C.A. building on the Monterey Peninsula will further promote this worthy cause by offering a course in "slimnastics" where exercises take on a new dimension and new form for all participants. For further information on this fine class, call Mrs. Jade Kirkpatrick, 624-3764 or 624-3996.

Richard Brace is very busy rearranging Studios 11 and 12A to accommodate the program in Cartooning and Animation, as taught by Pat Saylor, in learning to draw Cartoons and camera techniques in animation. Mrs. Saylor, formerly a resident of Newport Beach, spearheads this new class with firm knowledge of her trade and great enthusiasm. She is a very fine artist and excels in Mosaics as well, working with her husband in this particular medium. For further information, call 624-9783.

This week is a full schedule of Music for our music lovers, as we look forward to the Carmel Music Society on Thursday and Saturday, 2:00-3:00 p.m. Dr. Greenberg will present his Record Collectors Hour in Sunset Theater. This program is free to the public and we are very pleased to have Dr. Greenberg sharing his classical albums with us.

I'm sure I speak in behalf of a completely packed house for the Explorama presentation of the film on New Zealand, when I say this country has to be a must on every ones traveling schedule. April 24 Mr. Loubis will present a special film on China, which should be of intense interest to everyone. May 1st will be the final presentation of the season and tickets may be purchased at Abinanti's and also the former box office in Carmel.

Before I sign off, let me say once again how happy we are to welcome Mrs. Eleanor Melvin, and her Coordinating Arts Council, presently sharing space with Richard Brace, and will have volunteers from the Council on hand daily 1:00-5:00 p.m. Tuesday thru Friday, for information and advice concerning events on the Monterey Peninsula, involving all the Arts and Community Activities.

And remember ... APRIL 26th ... SUNDAY, 2:00-6:00 p.m. - "Artists in Action".

Studio's new comedy one of the best

A splendid cast of four makes "Any Wednesday" surely one of the most sparkling comedies ever staged on the local theatre scene.

It opened last weekend at the Studio Theatre in Carmel to a notably warm reception. Directed by Bill Asp, "Any Wednesday" is sophisticated adult theatre with an abundance of cleverly contrived situations.

Immoral, perhaps, by traditional standards, the play rollicks along and the characters become so believable that as light entertainment it must be assessed as a huge success.

As Ellen, a New York City tycoon's plaything, Brit Lind is smashing in the role which lofted Sandy Dennis to stardom on Broadway. A stunning blonde with superb stage presence, she engages the audience's sympathy and attention, and never releases it.

David Hughes hopefully will make more appearances on the Carmel stage. He is utterly convincing as the executive who thinks he can buy anything he wants, including women, with suave elegance and rascality.

Rod Allison may well have reached his zenith in "Any Wednesday". The role of Cass Henderson who stumbles into the "executive suite" is one that could easily lose its believability. Allison keeps his poise and handles his lines brilliantly. He doesn't arrive to steal Ellen away from her gilded cage, but it is readily apparent that she needs him a great deal more than he needs her.

Joyce Crawford rounds out the superb cast in the part of Dorothy. As the tycoon's wife who must rise above her husband's arrogance as well as his peccadilloes, she is strictly professional all the way. Her cool detachment is remarkably well sustained and provides a beautiful complement to the hanky-panky. And by keeping her cool, she naturally gets back what she wants - and needs.

Bill Asp's staging is crisp, adroit and seldom if ever loses its momentum. He succeeds in building up and sustaining the tricky suspense which this comedy requires. The minor lapses are certain to be erased during the rest of the run.

The excellent setting and lighting were done by Bob Evans, Jr., with the set construction - "a garden apartment in Manhattan"-by Michele Evans, Paul Boczkowski, Richard Soden, Greg Higgins and Richard Vargas. Susan Lynch is stage manager.

The play - by Muriel Resnik - ran for a remarkable 984 performances on Broadway, beginning Feb. 18, 1964. It plays now at the Studio Theatre in downtown Carmel for the next five weekends. For those who enjoy an evening of relaxing entertainment as a change of pace, it is highly recommended.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF MONTEREY

Application of: No. M 4661
Richard Hughes McComb

PROCEEDINGS FOR CHANGE OF NAME ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

Whereas, Richard Hughes McComb, petitioner, a male, over the age of 21 years, has filed a petition with the Clerk of this court for an order changing petitioner's name from Richard Hughes McComb to Sean Clippinger Hughes.

IT IS ORDERED that all persons interested in the above entitled matter appear before this court on May 1, 1970, 9:30 a.m. in the court room of department 4 of said court, at 1200 Agudito Road, in the city of Monterey, California, then and there to show cause, if any, why the petition for change of name should not be granted.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order to Show Cause be published in the Carmel Pine Cone, a newspaper of general circulation printed in the County of Monterey, California, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the date set for hearing on the petition.

Dated: February 26, 1970.

LIMITED NUMBER of swimming pool memberships available at $10 month, on a monthly basis, in our beautiful new heated pool. For adults 18 and over. Rippling River Resort, just east of Carmel Valley Village on Carmel Valley Road in sunny Carmel Valley. Phone 659-4763 for more information.

IT'S WILDFLOWER month in Carmel Valley, and along with the beautiful sunshine it's Keeping Room Gourmet Garden Time, too. What more pleasant way to start the day than relaxing under our Happy Tree with a marvelous cup of Salvador coffee, thick orange juice and CowBoy Scrambled Eggs... unless it's with fragrant Baked Apple Dumpling or hot home-baked Spice Bread.

For picnic lunches, call ahead, 659-2512, and Dru will make a picnic lunch to take along on a wildflower trip up the Carmel Valley Road to the back country!

New on the noon luncheon is our fancy fruit salad boasting berries and cherries and molded cottage cheese flavored with orange. So beautiful to behold it's bound to be fattening... but isn't. Positively marvy Pot au Feu and light tender Quiche Lorraine. All at 6 Pilot Road, Carmel Valley Village, from 9 to 4 every day but Monday.

An elderly man, rich in experience, wishes to start a small school; perhaps in Carmel Valley I am especially interested in establishing a kindly atmosphere where children from broken homes can find a new start and heart-healing. A school where the quiet unaggressive child can grow without tramping. A school where little children will feel free to sing as the song-sparrow sings. And teaching where simple Christian thinking will take the place of massed child psychology. Once upon a time there was a Carmel few people remember now. Talent was everywhere. A wholesome nook where a few natural children could write, splash color, create ceramics, build tree-houses and dog-houses, grow flowers and dwarf trees and keep an aquarium: all this might revive a bit of the original Carmel as a few of us remember it.

A really free creative child is still the widest doorway to the truly Kingdom-of-Heaven culture. And seed-corn in the spring is worth vastly more than dried cornstalks in the fall.

I have taught shop in private schools.

Two Prize Packages!

Look now for a Carmel commercial lot and realize how scarce they are. Look ahead and realize how smart you'd be if you had acquired one when you could. Don't be forced to say, "I could have bought a business lot in 1970. Why didn't I?"

Here are 2 sites, now underimproved, but providing some income and tax benefits. Let inflation and increasing scarcity prove you to be THE WISE ONE!

One is a C1 lot very close in with a beautifully restored home divided into 4 rental units PLUS a delightful apartment for owner. Only $69,500. NOW.

The other is a DOUBLE C1 lot with 2 rental houses. Very easy to rent and ideally located. $95,000 for this and you'd be so wise to invest NOW!

CARMEL'S BEST BUY

About a Mile up
the Carmel Valley

A 3-bedroom, 2-bath home about 2 years old -- seems like you are in the country with all the seclusion and privacy it has. This was a custom-built home and you really should see it at the price of only $45,500.

Carmel Point

Big patios -- privacy -- excellent construction -- 2 bedrooms and 2 baths -- formal living room -- large dining room -- lovely kitchen. All of these are good points and we cannot find a bad point in this $65,000 home. By appointment only.

Best Values Are

Enos Fouratt's Specials

Undoubtedly the BEST VALUE in a one-level, three-bedroom, two-bath home on the market today -- and it can be acquired for $46,500.

If you prefer a two-story, the BEST VALUE is again a three-bedroom, two-bath home for $49,500 -- and the owner will help with the financing.

The BEST VALUE in Rancho Rio Vista right now is a 1.1-acre site with easy road access, a real view and many oaks -- and try to match it for $20,000.

Our 2.9 acres down near Rocky Point is the BEST VALUE in an ocean-front site. Owner will carry financing for 8 percent on a negotiable amortization basis. Utilities are underground.

In a two-bedroom, one-bath contemporary, the BEST VALUE is our $27,500 home up on Santa Rita.

And if you are looking for an Equestrian Center, we have the BEST VALUE in that line on over thirty acres.

ENJOY your retirement and walk the beaches within a stone's throw of this Carmel Point contemporary home. 'Tis compact (although there are 3 bedrooms and 2 baths), but the spacious living room is delightful with its extra high ceiling, used-brick fireplace wall and abundance of glass. A handsome deck encircles the home on two sides and the 60' lot is simply and artistically planted for easy maintenance. Just vacated and someone will make a good buy here! $48,500.

A BARGAIN AT ANY PRICE! That's what we say about any vacant land on Carmel Point. And this level sunny lot with a lagoon view is listed at only $20,000! Exclusive.

QUIET SOPHISTICATION Located on a sleepy cul-de-sac yet close to the heart of town this almost new artistic "Town House". The interesting split-level floor plan features a sunken living room, a dining room opening onto a deck, a colorful modern kitchen and on the upper level a spacious master bedroom with walk-in closet, dressing room and bath, a second bedroom and bath and a sunny studio room. Very pleasant outlook through lovely oaks. See this at $49,500. Exclusive.

A "FIXER-UPPER"! It's an adobe with 2 bedrooms, 2 baths located south of Ocean Ave. $40,000! Sorry, no telephone information.

3 BEDROOMS, 2 BATHS, $34,500

An extremely neat, clean home on a quiet street near Carmel Mission. It has a very large, protected patio, apple trees, double garage, thick wall-to-wall carpeting, and much, much more than you'd expect for this low price. Exclusive.

3 BEDROOMS AND GUEST HOUSE, 2 LOTS, $59,500

You'll like the house the minute you see it, and you'll like it even more when you step into the 30-foot, wood-paneled living room. It's in a top Carmel location on a corner with a southern exposure. There are 2 baths, a modernized kitchen, and a 2-room guest house with bath.

LUXURIOUS, OCEAN VIEW 4-BEDROOM ADOBE

This is one of those immaculate, well planned, beautifully built homes that only rarely comes on the market. It has everything a discriminating buyer can demand, including automatic garage door opener, garden sprinkler system, and sewing room. 3 baths and a den. It is situated at the end of a cul-de-sac and is landscaped for maximum privacy. An exclusive offering at $98,750.

2 BEDROOMS ON SCENIC DRIVE -- $58,500

With a clear view of the beach, Carmel Bay and Pebble Beach. Not an old shack, as you'd expect at this (relatively) low, low price, but a charming, sound cottage with beamed-ceiling living room, small dining room, central heat, shake roof, protected patio facing south, and a detached studio room that absolutely defies description. Exclusive.

We Present a Collection of Very Distinguished Residences

An English Country Place

Quiet, secluded gardens, canyon pools, incredible outlook over the sea. Guest house, conservatory, terrace. Nothing to do but enjoy it! Located in the Carmel Highlands. Price $130,000.

"Casa del Puente"

Elegant Mediterranean which could be located on any famous sea coast of the world (but is fortunately only 4 miles south of Carmel). Foreign charm, yes - but all domestic comforts. Expensive, and worth it.

Handsome Stone Hacienda

A "museum" of building hand-craftsmanship which you could no longer find anyone to produce even if you could afford it. This property comes complete with its own key to Point Lobos.

On the Beach a Mile from Carmel

Probably one of the most exciting, and certainly one of the most unusual homes ever built here. You will agree that it is certainly priced below replacement, and that its price well under $200,000 is pleasantly surprising.

"Ship Rock"

A study in pure perfection of dreaming and planning with utmost attention to every comfort of life. Fascinating ocean-front site on a fabulous cove overlooking Point Lobos. If you are in the price range over $250,000 you must see this at once. (It has never been offered before.)

Highlands Fling!

If you dreamed up your own A-frame and placed it with a 300-degree view of the ocean, you couldn't improve upon this one - so nicely priced at just $90,000.

Pebble Beach

Stone manor house with great dignity of style. Set in spacious grounds to seclude it, but just 2 blocks from Del Monte Lodge. Completely modernized and in white-glove condition - and just $169,500.

Always Wanted to Own a Mission?

Adobe possibly pre-dating Carmel Mission. Preserved beautifully and secluded in lovely gardens with several other buildings, mostly old. Swimming pool, right in Carmel and $125,000 is the price.

"Geranium Gate"

A very lovely home for lazy in-town living on Carmel's Scenic Drive. Delightful patios, walled gardens, and a guest apartment. Also, very secluded from the Drive. Price just $89,500.

Old Spanish for a Large Family

3 Master suites or 6 bedrooms, 5 1/2 baths, apartment. On the 13th Tee of the Shore Course with simply magnificent ocean views, too. First time offered and priced at $125,000.

GRUNSKY BACKS DOWN AFTER HEATED ARGUMENT:Friends of the Sea Otter at state capital

THE LOCAL CONTINGENT of the Friends of the Sea Otter is seen arriving in Sacramento Monday for the Senate hearings on Senator Grunsky's bill, SB 442.

The bill would give the State Fish and Game Commission power to manage the sea otter within the 75-mile refuge off this coast. Grunsky stated after the meeting that his measure would be re-submitted in different form after further study.
